Also wanted to thank any senators and executive staff that helped with the special election booth yesterday and today. Took part in the ribbon cutting at the book ceremony with President Hammond, they officially “officially” opened the book store. Went off with a complete success. Hope everyone went through the book store already and looked at all the merchandise and books. This week Thursday was the December faculty senate meeting, you can see right there that this is what the faculty has looked at. Dating back from 1992, they have been trying to put something similar like this together, it has come to full tuition now. This has passed the University Affairs Committee, went to faculty senate yesterday, this will now move on to the provos counsel. They are going with the formatting this semester and next. Also, from now and until end of semester I encourage you to educate your constituency on the tuition incentive program. Every class you pass with a C, you get five dollars back. You will see that on tigertracks. Please educate your constituency. This does not include the Summer semester of 2010. Next week Wednesday and Thursday will be the December KBOR meeting. Please mark your calendar for Tuesday, February 16. It’s a way to lobby your state senators on behalf of the student body and higher education system. Please be watching your emails. Office will close on Saturday. Senator office hours will not need to be served during office hours.
