NUMBER NINETEEN

Debaters Rank High At Harvard

Although Dan McGovern and Rex Gaskill didn't bring home any trophies from the Harvard debate tournament this week, they did end up being rated 34 and 33 from a list of 216 speakers.

McGovern, Upland, Calif., and Gaskill, Hutchinson, both juniors, had a 6-2 record defeating St. Peters, N. J.; Rice, Houston; Drake, Des Moines; St. John's, N. Y.; University of Pittsburg and McGill University of Canada. They fell to Fordham University, N. Y. and Wayne State, Mich.

The FHS debaters missed qualifying for the elimination matches by only one round. There was a total of 96 schools represented from 27 states and Canada in the tourney.

Jonie Burris, Hays sophomore, and Janey Weinhold, Ellsworth senior, comprised the women's team at the McPherson tournament last weekend and came home with a 4-1 record. They tied for second place in the tourney but lost out to Wichita University in points.

Richard Scott and Tom Teschner, both Atchison freshman, had a record of 3-2 for the FHS men's team. They defeated Ottawa University, Midland College, Neb., and Northwestern State, Okla., but lost to Washburn and El Dorado junior college.

Stories Needed For The Sheaf

Short stories and poems are now being accepted for The Sheaf, campus literary magazine, according to Dr. S. J. Sackett, sponsor.

Material may be of any reasonable length and in any style, Dr. Sackett said. The magazine also accepts plays but has never had any submitted.

Last year for the first time The Sheaf contained only poems. Sackett said he hoped more good stories would be contributed this year.

Members of the editorial committee, besides Sackett, are Dr. Roberta Stout, Miss Alice Morrison, and Eugene Mullen.

Deadline for submissions is March 1.

Sig Taus Bounce Ball To Ellis

Cold, windy weather failed to soften the spirits of 14 Sigma Tau Gamma pledges Saturday as they dribbled a basketball from Hays to Ellis.

The men covered the 13.7 miles in one hour and 22 minutes by using a relay system with each man bouncing the ball for one-quarter mile. After each man had completed his run, an accompanying car drove him to the front of the procession where he could take another turn.

The Sig Taus stated they would not hesitate to take to the highway again if anyone threatens their record.

Larry Henry

Tickets Still Left For Four Freshman

Approximately 300 tickets remain for the 8 p.m., Tuesday performance of the vocalizing, strumming, blowing and thumping Four Freshmen to be held in the Hays High School Auditorium.

Tickets for the show, only 1,000 of them, selling for $2 each, went on sale Wednesday at the Tiger Hop. The Memorial Union is sponsoring the performance in connection with the Artists and Lectures Series.

These versatile virtuosos are: Bob Flanigan, who sings top voice, plays trombone and doubles on the string bass; Ross Barbour, master of ceremonies, sings third voice and plays drums and trumpet; Ken Albers, the bass voice of the group, plays trumpet and mellophone, and Bill Comstock sings second voice and plays guitar. Ken and Bill also arrange and compose many of the numbers used by the group.

New Job Listing Out

Students desiring summer jobs may inspect the new "Summer Employment Directory" in the dean of students office or the reference desk in Forsyth Library.

The book contains a comprehensive list of 1,486 organizations throughout the United States which want to hire college students this summer. Specific jobs with salary, name of employing official, and suggested procedure for making applications are given.

There are jobs for all classmen and upper classmen may find jobs related to their field of study.

Employers are included in the directory at their own request and they invite students to make application directly to them.

The new "Summer Employment Directory" may be obtained by sending $3 to National Directory Service, Dept. C, Box 32065, Cincinnati 32, Ohio.

Advertising Brings In Loan Money

Advertising has paid off for the Endowment Assn. of Fort Hays State.

Recently brochures were sent to 9,000 alumni asking their aid in raising the needed $8,000 for the National Defense Student Loan program.

In the replies for the first two days, 64 people have responded with their checks. The amounts have ranged from $1.00 to $1,000. The addresses of the donors have been from Hays as a center, to Topeka, Manhattan, Ashland, Moscow, Pueblo and Denver, Colo.

Ray Davis, a 1917 graduate from Stuckley, sent a check for $1,000. His wife and four children had also attended FHS.

"Fort Hays State has been good to us, and we want to help some other deserving student," stated Davis.

On Tuesday, Feb. 5, the total was $2,040, but a $500 check will be presented by Seventh Cavalry as soon as processing is completed. This would bring the figure to a grand total of $2,540.

This is a result of only two days' replies with 64 four people responding," said Kent Collier, executive secretary of the Endowment Assn.

"We hope to have more responses such as the ones we have already received."

MORE MONEY — Larry Good, Hugoton graduate, and Larry Ehrlich, Russell graduate, present Kent Collier, executive secretary of the Endowment Association, with a check from Seventh Cavalry.

The Senior Itch

This is the time of the great senior itch. The itch to get that degree and get out of here.

The itch is caused by a number of things. The loans from banks, uncles, parents and anyone else that would loan them money for an education are hanging over their heads. They are itching to earn some money, get these debts paid off and possibly buy themselves something.

They are itching to get away from the academic life and see how the rest of the world lives.

There is also a most uncomfortable itch that pops up when seniors have to attend that required freshman introductory course they and their advisers somehow forgot to include in the schedule three years ago.

The itch to get outdoors, breathe some fresh air and forget about studying causes a few raw spots also. And we mustn't forget the wives itch, to get those husbands out of school and supporting the family.

Probably the worst itch of all, more a pain than anything else, is caused by the thought that the registrar might find a two-hour deficiency somewhere on their transcripts that wouldn't let them graduate.

We wonder how many of these seniors will wish they were back in school scratching this time next year?

Two Column Mumblings

If there was a paying spectator sport in the United States that outdrew both baseball and football, wouldn't you say it deserved some decent publicity?

For some time, informed sources have been saying that motor racing is the largest paying spectator sport in the United States. Frank Blunk of THE NEW YORK TIMES quoted an annual attendance figure of 31 million last year.

Yet the main mention that racing gets in America is when someone is killed. Then it's just a photograph of a spectacular crash with no mention of who won the race.

Most of our sports have extremely well organized press and publicity departments. Baseball and football interests, in particular, spare no expense catering to the newspaper sports editor.

John Bond, editor of ROAD & TRACK, the "NEW YORK TIMES" of the motoring world, has said that in some cases editors make more money via "outside" income than they get as direct salary.

Few people, especially in the Midwest, realize the scope of motor racing. It runs from the local jalopy, stock car, drag and regional sports car races to the big international events with pure racing cars and drivers from many countries.

Racing, although much more diversified, has a hierarchy similar to football and baseball. It is little known that the United States has always been an underdog in motor racing on an international scope; that the most widely publicized race in the United States, the Indy 500, means little in an international sense.

How many people know that only one American car ever won a Grand Prix, and that was in 1924; that only one American man has ever been world driving champion and that he had to go to Italy to find a competitive car (no American car is capable of competing in world championship events); that only two Americans have won races counting toward the World Championship since 1924?

When Phil Hill was world champion in 1961, or winning races for that championship in 1960, the majority of newspapers have him only a token mention, if any. When Dan Gurney became the second American to win a Grand Prix in recent years, he received no mention in most papers. There are probably only a handful of Kansans that realize Masten Gregory, one of the world's top drivers, is from Kansas City.

It's sad enough when a national championship sports car race is held at Garnett, Kan. and receives little publicity, but when an American wins an event that all the free world is waiting to hear about and gets no mention in most papers, something is wrong.

The news media in the United States are missing the boat when the fail to give proper coverage to such events. Of course they say, "How many racing fans will ever see Stirling Moss drive?" I might ask how many baseball fans will ever see Mickey Mantle play. The comparison is fair.

As for motor racing being barbarous, only a handful of drivers were killed last year, and all of them knew and accepted the risks. In the Swiss Alps alone, hundreds of mountain climbers are killed each year. And this is supposed to be a clean, family sport.

There are precious few newspapers, such as the NEW YORK TIMES, that give adequate coverage to motoring events.

In midwest papers, I have actually seen four or five graph stories about what some relatively unknown jockey had for breakfast on the same page with a three-line mention of an American winning a major international race. And nine times out of ten, the names of the cars or drivers are misspelled.

READER WRITES To the Editor

Mr. Editor:

I am a loyal Fort Hays State basketball fan. Since we have a very fine team this year, anybody that wants a good seat has to go to the Coliseum very early. It has come to my attention in the past, but particularly at the last home game against Pan American, that some people do not make the effort that most of us do in obtaining, perhaps, some of the best seats in the house.

The Kit Kats have a very good section roped off for them at every home game. However at the last game they only had 29 girls there by game time, and most of them only made it there five or ten minutes before the starting buzzer. They only had enough girls there to fill one row of their entire section, but they had roped off eight rows. Many of the, shall I say, "cooler heads" helped themselves to seats in the Kit Kat section by tearing off the crepe paper markers on their respective rows.

This is hardly fair, is it?

To thwart such future activities, and to improve better school spirit, may I make these suggestions:

1. Reserve only half as many seats for the Kit Kats so they will also have to make an effort to get a good seat.

2. Have representatives of the Kit Kat Club looking after their section by the time the door opens.

Sincerely yours,
Kim McCoy
Topeka junior

Dr. Kuchar Will Discuss Russian Novel

Dr. Roman V. Kuchar, assistant professor of language, will discuss "Prologue to Life" by Vasili Ashayev at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Union Trails Room.

The fourth book to be reviewed in the Contemporary Novels Lecture Series reflects upon life in Russia during the thirties. It is a tale of the youth of the author's generation, of the first Five-Year Plan and of Moscow and Muscovites of that period.

The author, Vasili Azharyev, became a member of the U.S.S.R. Writers Union in 1947. Since 1960 he has been editor-in-chief of the official Soviet magazine, "Soviet Literature."

"Prologue to Life" is intended as a series of tales linked together by common characters," Kuchar said. "I would call this a typical Soviet book with all the positives and negatives of the so-called 'Soviet realism' in literature."

Union Schedules Exhibit, Music, Movie

An exhibit, two musical groups and a movie comprise the activities sponsored by the Memorial Union for the present and near future.

The exhibit, titled, "The Family, the neighborhood, and the city," is displayed in the upstairs gallery of the union.

On the musical scene, there are still approximately 300 tickets left for the Four Freshmen concert at the Hays High School auditorium Tuesday.

The "Tornadoes" from Dodge City will again provide entertainment for a Varsity Dance Feb. 16. Admission will be 75 cents per couple and 50 cents for stags.

Fabian, Tuesday Weld, Bing Crosby, Nicole Maurey, and Richard Beymer will star in the Union movie, "High Time," Sunday.

Current Art Display Features Sculpture

Several sculptures and drawings by Ralph N. Hurst, assistant professor of art education at Florida State University, will be on exhibition in the lounge-gallery of Davis Hall until Feb. 27.

Hurst received his A.B. and M.A. from Indiana University. He studied with the noted sculptor Robert Laurent.

His works have been exhibited extensively throughout the United States in the major invitational and competitive art exhibitions. His sculptures are also in numerous public and private collections.

In the summer of 1961, he was awarded a FSU Faculty Research Grant to explore new methods of casting sculpture in metals.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 1

Hate me if you will, but I must speak. We college types are far too complacent. Sure, we've got plenty to be proud of. We've got atom smashers, we've got graduate schools, we've got new peaks in scholarship, new highs in academic honors. And yet, in the midst of these triumphs, we have failed dismally to make any progress in solving the oldest and most horrendous of all campus problems: we've still got roommates.

To be sure, all roommates are not bad. There is the well-documented case of Hilquit Glebe, a student at the Manhattan College of Agriculture, majoring in curds and whey, who admitted publicly that he actually liked his roommate—an odd admission when you consider that this roommate, Mervis Truns by name, was frankly not too winsome a fellow. He practiced his tympani in his room, he kept an alligator, and he collected airplane tires.

But, on the other hand, Mervis bought two packs of Marlboro Cigarettes every day and gave one of them to Hilquit and—I ask you—who can stay mad at a man who gives you Marlboro Cigarettes? Who, upon tasting that flavorful blend of Marlboro tobaccos, upon drawing through that pure white Marlboro filter, upon exulting in this best of all possible cigarettes, Marlboro—who, I say, can harden his heart against his neighbor? Certainly not Hilquit. Certainly not I. Certainly not you, as you will find when you scurry to your nearest tobacconist and buy a supply. Marlboros come in soft pack or Flip-Top Box. Tobacconists come in small, medium, and large.

Today Molly is Paying off her debt...

But I digress. Roommates, I say, are still with us and I fear they always will be, so we better learn how to get along with them. It can be done, you know. Take, for instance, the classic case of Dolly Pitcher and Molly Madison.

Dolly and Molly, roommates at a prominent Midwestern girls' school (Vassar) had a problem that seemed insoluble. Dolly could only study late at night, and Molly could not stay awake past nine o'clock. If Dolly kept the lights on, the room was too bright for Molly to sleep. If Molly turned the lights off, the room was too dark for Dolly to study. What to do?

Well sir, those two intelligent American kids found an answer. They got a miner's cap for Dolly! Thus, she had enough light to study by, and still the room was dark enough for Molly to sleep.

It must be admitted, however, that this solution, ingenious as it was, had some unexpected sequelae. Dolly got so enchanted with her miner's cap that she switched her major from 18th Century poetry to mining and metallurgy. Shortly after graduation she had what appeared to be a great stroke of luck: while out prospecting, she discovered what is without question the world's largest feldspar mine. This might have made Dolly very rich except that nobody, alas, has yet discovered a use for feldspar. Today Dolly, a broken woman, squeezes out a meagre living making echoes for tourists in Mammoth Cave.

Nor has Molly fared conspicuously better. Once Dolly got the miner's hat, Molly was able to catch up on her long-lost sleep. She woke after eight days, refreshed and vigorous—more vigorous, alas, than she realized. It was the afternoon of the annual Dean's tea. Molly stood in line with her classmates, waiting to shake the Dean's hand. At last her turn came, and Molly, full of strength and health, gave the Dean a firm handshake—so firm, indeed, that all five of the Dean's knuckles were permanently fused.

The Dean sued for a million dollars, and, of course, won. Today Molly, a broken woman, is paying off her debt by walking the Dean's cat every afternoon for ten cents an hour.

We, the makers of Marlboro and the sponsors of this column, will not attempt to expertize about roommates. But we will tell you about a great pocket or purse mate—Marlboro Cigarettes—fine tobacco, fine filter, fine company always.

CIC Road Trips Continue; Tigers Meet Indians, Hornets

Two league games on the road are in store for the Fort Hays State basketball squad this week, after losing their most recent outing to St. Benedict's, 72-68.

Saturday the Tigers invade Indian territory when they meet the University of Omaha at 8 p.m. in University Fieldhouse.

The Nebraskans are tied with the Bengals in the Central Intercollegiate Conference race for fourth place, both having 2-3 records.

Pacing the Omaha offense has been Jon Lloyd, who is third in CIC scoring, averaging over 15 points per game. The Indians, now with a 7-8 season record, also have plenty of height in 6-8 Ed Woodward and 6-7½ Larry Villnow.

The Bengals will return from Omaha Sunday and then depart Tuesday in order to meet Emporia State that night at 8 p.m. in the Emporia Civic Auditorium.

After four conference contests, the Hornets sport a 2-2 record, while having a 9-10 mark overall.

Doug Glaysher, all-CIC first team selection last year, leads Emporia in scoring with an average of nearly 15 points per game.

It will be the second meeting this season between the two clubs. In the first clash the Tigers, playing on their home court, handed Emporia an 83-79 defeat.

An excellent effort on the part of the cellar-dwelling St. Benedict's Ravens resulted in the upset over the Tigers Monday night.

Willy LaNere, a 5-7 guard, totaled 16 points to lead the winning squad's offense. Clutch play for the Ravens, who hit on 48 per cent of their shots from the field, was provided by Divk Maurer, a transfer playing his first game.

The pivot man finished with eight points, two of them gift tosses in the final 15 seconds, which put the game out of reach of the Tigers.

After trailing by as much as 12 points in the first half the Bengals tied or pulled ahead by one point six times after intermission and trailed 69-68 with 3:10 remaining.

The final three points for the Staters came on a set shot and free throw by guard Tom McKain.

The Ravens then employed ball control tactics until playmaker Phil Noser drew a foul and hit his 12th point of the game. The two gift tosses by Maurer completed the action and handed FHS its fifth loss of the season, against 10 victories.

A tall, strong Pan American College team from Edinburg, Texas, defeated the Bengal cagers, 85-73, Saturday night in Sheridan Coliseum.

The loss broke a 19-game home court winning streak.

Highlighting the Bronco attack was 6-9 Lucious Jackson, who tallied 30 points and grabbed 19 rebounds. Mitchell Edwards added 21.

The bright spot for Tiger fans was in Tiger rebounding, where FHS topped its taller opponent by pulling down 50, to 40 for Pan American.

John Channell tied the school record for the most rebounds in a single game by hauling down 19. The mark was set by former cager Dean Larson against Pittsburg State in February of 1961.

Herb Stange led the Bengals in scoring against both Pan American and St. Benedict's hitting 17 and 18 points, respectively.

Nebraska, Omaha Next for Wrestlers

Nebraska University and Omaha University are next on the Tiger wrestling agenda at 7:30 p.m. in Sheridan Coliseum Friday and Saturday, respectively.

The OU Indians have compiled a 4-2 record in dual competition this season.

FHS netted its second victory this year over the Kearney State grapplers, winning 24-10. The first triumph over the Antelopes was 28-8 at home in December.

Tiger sophomore Vic Lyczak, who moved from 147 to 157 to meet Kearney's Bill Olson, held Olson to a 3-3 draw. Olson is undefeated for the past two seasons at Kearney.

Kearney's other undefeated star, Don Hather, gained one point for riding time to win his bout, 6-5, over Tiger Jim Tinkler in the 191-pound match.

Kearney Is Foe Tonight

The Tiger junior varsity cagers go to Kearney (Neb.) State today with hopes of redeeming a 106-104 setback earlier in the season. Tip-off time at Cushing Coliseum is 7:30 p.m.

Last Thursday the young Bengals came from behind to defeat McPherson Central College, 77-70, in a contest played at McPherson. Gary Channell, Menlo freshman, led the Tiger attack with 18 points.
