5. Old Business
5a. Fall Break
   1. Senator Goodlett read a letter written by Senator Dorn.
   2. In the letter, Senator Dorn expressed her concerns about Faculty Senate and its need to listen to and take into account the needs of minority voices when making decisions.
   3. Senator Koerner asked when will the Fall Break decision be final. She also asked about the evaluation of chairs and deans and interim chairs and deans.
   4. A general discussion ensued on this topic. Provost Gould indicated that the administration has created a process by which to appoint and evaluate chairs and deans.
5. General discussion about Oktoberfest emerged concerning the hours being extended to 7:00 pm being a bad idea.
6. Another general discussion ensued in which senators indicated that class attendance was good on Oktoberfest.

6. New Business
6a. Fall Break Decision
   1. Senator Drabkin indicated that Faculty Senate might have “botched it” at the last meeting by rushing to a decision.
   2. Senator Goodlett concurred by suggesting that procedural practices might not have been followed and that not enough senators had a voice in the decision.
   3. A general discussion ensued in which the following was expressed:
      a. Senator Koerner indicated that Faculty Senate has made such decisions in the past.
      b. Senator Britten added that it is not unprecedented to have such a vote.
      c. President Jordan stated that three quarters of those who responded to his questions about the vote indicated that they would not change their vote whether we had a special meeting or not.
      d. Provost Gould remarked that Faculty Senate is only a representative democracy; those who are present give voice to our concerns and decisions.
      e. Senator Goodlett expressed concern about tenure-track faculty who might feel reluctant to express themselves.
      f. Several senators expressed the need for all to speak up and that they have never felt intimidated at the meetings.
      g. The discussion ended with President Jordan reading from a statement he had written about activities in the Faculty Senate, emphasizing that a vote was taken and a decision was made by the majority in the Senate.

7. Adjournment of Regular Faculty Senate Meeting
    7a. Meeting was adjourned at 4:40 p.m.
