Earmark Tuesday For Blood Drive

FHS students, faculty and staff will have a chance to donate blood in a nation-wide blood program known as "blood mobile on campus" next week.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is sponsoring the drive in cooperation with the Red Cross blood program. The Red Cross blood unit will be on campus, and the drive will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Memorial Union basement.

Those donating a pint of blood and their immediate family are eligible to receive free blood, if necessary, for one year. If 15 per cent of the student body contributes during this drive and the one next semester, the entire student population at FHS would be protected under the program.

Prior to Thanksgiving, fraternity members opened a recruiting campaign in an effort to enlist donors in the program. A traveling trophy will be awarded to the campus organization donating the most blood in proportion to membership.

All single students under 21 must have parental permission to make donations. Sign-up slips are still available in the Memorial Union, residence halls, Greek houses and the student health center.

Part of the blood donated will be used to make the Red Cross commitment to U. S. military hospitals in South Viet Nam.

Blood donors should eat no fatty foods from at least four to six hours before donating.

Armond Rudd, APO president, and Jerry Johnson, APO adviser, have been working with the student health office in planning the drive. Dale Blickenstaff, instructor in economics and business, has helped to coordinate the effort.

The nurse education division, including the 10 members of the junior nursing class, and two instructors, Leora Stroup and Mrs. Elinor Trosin will help the unit in the project. Area Gray Ladies and several community nurses will also be assisting.

Dr. Garwood Featured At Faculty Conference

John D. Garwood, dean of the faculty, will give a paper on "Trends in Regulations" to the College Faculty Conference Dec. 8, 9 and 10 at Wichita.

The conference, sponsored by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., will try to acquaint faculty members with the problems of business.

ASC Approves 'U.N.' Expense

In a brief meeting Tuesday evening, All-Student Council voted to pay all expenses, except food bills, of delegates attending the Mid-West Model United Nations.

This year, FHS will represent Argentina and Sierra Leone at the Model UN to be held in St. Louis in early March.

The Council voted to accept the Evaluation of Instruction form and stressed its use by faculty members. The form is presently used on a voluntary basis. A suggestion to ask the Faculty Senate to make the form's use mandatory was dropped after discussion.

The evaluation form can be passed out to the students by their instructor near the semester's end. Students do not have to sign their names on the form, but can evaluate the instructor's teaching methods.

Personnel committee chairman, Dwight High, Elkhart graduate, reported to ASC that Muster Day will be held again this year at FHS.

High said the date isn't definite yet, but the day will be sometime in February. During Muster Day, the outstanding seniors from area high schools are invited to FHS.

They take part in tours, talks and discussions of all phases and areas of study offered at FHS.

"Rhino" Begins Three-Night Run

"Rhinceros," second presentation of "New Drama '65-66," begins a three-night run tonight at Felten-Start Theater, Malloy Hall.

The play, by French author Eugene Ionesco, deals with an epidemic of "rhinocertitis" which strikes a small village. One by one, inhabitants turn into rhinoceroses until there is only one human left.

Perry Schwartz, director, describes the play as "based on the conformity of society and one individual's struggle to fight that conformity."

Tickets for "Rhinceros" are available at the Memorial Union or by calling Ext. 372. Admission is student activity ticket or one dollar. Tickets may also be purchased at the door from 7 p.m. till curtain time, 8 p.m. All seats are reserved.

Debaters Will Enter First Salina Tourney

Eight FHS debaters travel to Kansas Wesleyan, Salina, this weekend for the first meet ever held at that school.

Debate coach Jim Costigan reports that this is the largest debate group to make a trip this year. Debating in the senior division are Richard Scott, Atchison senior, and Doris Scott, Downs junior. Also in the senior division are Alan Scheibmeir, Salina sophomore, and Jean Oborny, Timken senior.

Clark Chipman, Hill City junior, and Sharla Barber, Goodland freshman, will compete in the junior division, along with Henry Wolf, Ellinwood freshman, and Ron Morford, Oberlin freshman.

This tourney will mark the first debate as teams for Scheibmeir-Oborny, Chipman-Barber and Wolf-Morford.

Richard Scott and Doris Scott have compiled an 11-3 record and captured first place in the senior division at the University of Colorado.

The Scotts and Miss Barber will also compete in oratory, and Wolf, Oborny, Chipman, Morford and Richard Scott are entered in poetry interpretation.

Reduction Could Harm FHS

College Budget May Be Sliced

By Gary Kisner
Managing Editor

Can FHS compete with other colleges and universities for teachers—and in educational quality?

This question grew out of a recent meeting of the Kansas Board of Regents, college and university leaders, Gov. William Avery and members of the House and Senate ways and means committees.

The college officials, including President M. C. Cunningham, appeared at a hearing with Avery to urge adoption of a $97,000,000 budget in the 1966 budget session. In addition, the officials opposed $3,300,000 in cuts of budget increases by the state budget department.

FHS's recommended share of the total budget for state institutions is $6,215,395, W. E. Keating, comptroller, says. The original FHS request was $6,532,660.

Avery has not yet indicated what he will do in restoring the proposed cuts in the regent's requests. The official announcement will be included in Avery's message to the legislature in January.

Several college officials believe the reduction of the board's salary increases requested for faculty members could seriously jeopardize the future of higher education in Kansas.

Dr. Cunningham told Avery that FHS lost 30 faculty members last spring to other institutions. The president said that FHS had 24 faculty resignations in 1964, and only 90 faculty members have been here more than five years.

He noted that the success of any educational institution depends upon its ability to secure and retain excellent faculty members.

Cunningham said, "It is imperative that our salaries be brought up to a competitive level where well-qualified faculty members can be brought to our schools and retained."

Sharing Cunningham's sentiments was Dr. James McCain, president of Kansas State University. McCain called efforts by the budget department to trim a proposed salary increase requested by the board from six to four per cent "intolerable."

He noted that never in Kansas State's history has the university lost so many key faculty members in such a short time. Included in the loss were the agricultural experiment director, the director of resident instruction in agriculture, the associate dean of engineering and the dean of veterinary medicine.

Dr. John Garwood, dean of the FHS faculty, said that presently FHS can compete with other institutions in securing teachers with master's degrees, but not at the Ph.D. level.

"Our problem is not only in securing, but holding the instructors we have," Garwood said. "Some schools compete with us financially and also have fringe benefits like lighter work-loads for instructors," Garwood added.

"It's ridiculous with our high standard of living in Kansas," Garwood said, "to say we can't afford a good educational system as much as good cars and homes."

He says a loss of qualified teachers by not spending money on education is short-changing our youth. "Studies have proven that money spent on education is a lucrative investment in rate of its return," Garwood said.

Christmas Craze

Activities Going Strong

Though no newly-fallen snow lies on the ground and no sleigh bells can be heard ringing, Christmas activities are in full swing at FHS this week.

The scene is a 16th century baronial castle in England, complete with a lord of the manor, pages, trumpeters, castle servants and even madrigal singers. This will provide the setting for the second night of the English Madrigal Dinner to be held at 6:15 tonight in the Memorial Union.

Guests will gather in the Union Lounge at the wassail table and continue through the six-course dinner served in the Black and Gold Room.

The Fort Hays Singers will tell the Christmas story in song between courses. Jerry Ruttman, Union director, will preside as Lord of the Manor and host of the feast.

Another high point in the week's activities will be the annual Christmas Vespers at 3 p.m. Sunday in Sheridan Coliseum.

This year's Vespers will feature music by several groups—the varsity band, glee clubs and the Clarinet Choir. Directors will be Lyle Dille, band; Mary Maude Moore, glee clubs; and H. G. Palmer, Clarinet Choir.

The Memorial Union Program Council will sponsor the annual children's Christmas party at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Black and Gold Room. Santa Claus, candy and Christmas cartoons will be provided for the children of faculty, staff and married students.

A Christmas tree made of cards from all campus organizations will be presented to President and Mrs. Cunningham at 10:30 a.m. Dec. 17 in the Memorial Union.

John Duff, chairman of the Union Program Board, and Marilyn Wilson, ASC chairman, will present the tree. Prior to the presentation, the Brass Choir will play several Christmas carols and students will sing along.

Dec. 17 is also "Free Coffee Day" at the Union from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The coffee will be served by the faculty working in shifts.

Campus organizations are also celebrating the holidays. The German Club's annual Christmas party, known as "Weihnachtsfest," will be held at 8 tonight in the Memorial Union Prairie Room. Included will be singing of Christmas carols, readings and refreshments.

Tuesday the Home Economics Club and guests will be caroling for the residents of the Good Samaritan Center in Ellis.

Over 300 Students Added to Tiger's Roar

Tiger's Roar, newly-formed coed pep club, is rapidly gaining members, but the membership drive is not yet over.

About 330 students paid their dues as of Tuesday afternoon, according to George Kay, acting president. All interested persons should contact their housing unit representative or Kay.

The executive council is working on a point system to determine the winners of the Tiger Roar Spirit Awards. These awards include traveling trophies for the Greek houses and the residence halls and a permanent plaque.

According to Kay, points are awarded to groups for the percentage of organization members belonging to the pep club. Additional points are gained by participating in or originating club projects, such as poster-making.

Election of officers should be completed before Christmas vacation. The club has a reserved section with 288 seats roped off for basketball season. Vacant seats in the section are open to anyone after 7 p.m.

Christian Group To Meet

The Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship will meet at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 16 in Malloy Hall 212. Paul Steeves, regional director of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship from KU, will be the featured speaker. The public is invited to attend.

Fliers Share Airplane Cost With Club

FLYING HIGH — Bill Halpern, assistant professor of chemistry, takes the controls of the FHS Flying Club plane as James Gruber, left, instructor in physics, and Dr. Bill Gwynn, associate professor of psychology look on. Members of the club have logged over 700 hours of flight time.

By Dennis Pearce
Editorial Editor

A yen to fly, stopped by the cost of owning an airplane, prompted members of a Hays flying club to band together, buy a plane and share the expense among themselves.

Three of the present members are on the FHS faculty: Dr. William F. Gwynn, associate professor of psychology; William Halpern, assistant professor of chemistry; and James D. Gruber, instructor in physics.

The other two are Henry Schwaller, Jr., and Gail Moser, both of Hays.

The club was started in March, 1964, and a 1956 Cessna 172 was purchased. The 172 is a four-place light airplane and will cruise at approximately 115 miles per hour. It is also fully equipped for instrument flight.

Since the club's beginning, members have logged over 700 hours in the plane.

Dr. Gwynn says, "Flying costs may seem large, but they are similar to operating a car. In fact, in some cases, they can be cheaper. A person can cut trip time in half."

"My wife and I fly to Wichita in one hour and 20 minutes as opposed to the three hours it would take by car."

Club costs include a flat rate of $11.66 per month. This is broken down into $26.66 for the mortgage on the plane and $15.00 for maintenance which includes insurance, hanger fee and other fixed upkeep costs.

Members pay $6.50 per hour to fly the plane. Gwynn says, "If a person flies as much as five hours per month, it is cheaper than renting a plane. An average of eight hours per month runs less than $12 per hour."

According to club president, Bill Halpern, the plane is flown an average of 30 hours per month. He says, "It has gone as high as 40 or 50 though. Members have taken it to such places as St. Louis, Denver, Oklahoma City and Dallas."

The club has an eight-member limit, but presently has three openings. "A prospective member has to buy out an old member's share in the plane," Gwynn says.

When the club first started, it was composed entirely of faculty and students, according to Gwynn.

"Belonging to the club is good for someone working on a student license," Gwynn says. "Five members have gotten some kind of license."

Gwynn is presently working on an instrument rating, Moser on his commercial license and Halpern has nearly completed his private ticket.

The club has been talking about combining with another local flying club, according to Gwynn. "If we did, we would keep the 172 as a trainer and buy a new, faster airplane. However, there is nothing definite yet on this."

Dec. 31 Deadline Set For Work-Study Program

Students interested in a work-study program at Larned State Hospital this summer must apply by Dec. 31.

Application blanks may be obtained from Dr. Arnold Grushnys, Hospital Improvement Program, Box 589, Larned. An official school transcript must accompany applications.

The work-study program is designed to acquaint students with different jobs in mental health and hospital work. Students attend classes and films on personality development and discuss community organization and human relations in small group meetings.

Work and study extend from June 1 to Aug. 31. Students receive a tax-free stipend corresponding to the amount of formal education. This grant ranges from $150 for a fall, 1966 college freshman to $270 for a 1966 spring graduate.

Minimum cost per month for room and board is $30.

Applicants are chosen according to the hospital's estimate of their interest, aptitude and likelihood of later work in making a contribution to improving human welfare. Instructors and college officials help select students by making evaluations and recommendations.

Tickets Still On Sale

Tickets for the Reveille Ball, to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in Sheridan Coliseum, are available in Martin Allen Hall, first floor. Tickets are $2.50 per couple.

Students Assist In Hearing Tests

Besides training students in speech courses providing help for Western Kansas schools, the FHS audiology class is spending several days each semester testing the hearing of public school children in selected areas.

George Kitaman, assistant professor of speech, and his audiology class recently completed a two-day program for the Phillipsburg public schools and will go to Dodge City later this semester.

Approximately 800 students at Phillipsburg from third grade through high school were given screening tests to discover any hearing problems.

The class makes recommendations to the school nurse, who relays the information and suggestions to the parents for medical treatment and educational follow-up.

In addition to the off-campus service, the audiologists also test the hearing of all FHS freshmen and transfer students.

Forget That Test

Throw the books out the window!

Ignore term papers, tests and lengthy assignments due before Christmas vacation. These next few days will be hum-dingers as organizations try to get their projects done before Christmas vacation.

This coming weekend is a good example. In fact, it starts tonight when "New Drama '65-'66" opens its second play of the year, "Rhinceros." Since the weekend is full, it would be better to attend tonight.

But, since it runs three nights, something else could be sacrificed to see it. Unless you're a faculty member. The Memorial Union's Madrigal Dinner for faculty only starts tonight.

This segregated scheduling does make for better service and less traffic jams.

Friday is relatively quiet. Only a sorority shoe shine mars the day. The only event scheduled for the evening is the Madrigal Dinner again. This time it is open to anyone... evidently students are included in the invitation.

Except for the last night of the play, Saturday boasts only one attraction vying for student time, the Reveille Ball. Since it is an annual affair and many pretty girls will be on view for selection as Reveille Queen, it will be worth your time to attend.

But if you don't like to dance, run to Pueblo, Colo., for the FHS-Southern Colorado basketball game. This is a long drive though, so unless you hurry, you'll miss the Christmas Vespers Sunday afternoon in Sheridan Coliseum.

Sliding into the home stretch, term papers flying and midnight oil burning brightly, you can take a short break Tuesday and hear the Collegian Chorale and Brass Choir concert. You can go with a clear conscience because vacation starts Friday, the 17th.

The rat race doesn't start again until Jan. 3. This time you can ignore finals while rushing to all the activities demanding your time. After all, what's a semester on probation?

City Gains On Signal

For the past two weeks, the Leader has been calling on the city of Hays for a signal at the Elm Street railroad crossing.

There still isn't a signal, but at least progress has been made. City Manager Hugh Hull, President Cunningham and Dr. Bill Jellison, dean of men, met Monday. According to Jellison, the meeting was fruitful.

He said, "Preliminary plans were made. It will be a time-consuming process and will be slower when the railroad is involved. But the city is checking to see what it can do alone."

"Hugh Hull is checking on right-of-way, cost of previous signals and railroad participation," he said.

Jellison added, "Within a week or two, definitely before Christmas, concrete results will be seen."

This is a good, solid sign of progress and the Leader will look forward to seeing the "concrete results." Now that the project has gone this far, it must not be allowed to be dropped.

Reiterating its stand, the Leader advocates the combination flashing-bell signal similar to the one on Fort Street. It is more expensive, but seems to be the only type of signal that will work at the crossing.

Other Editors Say . . .

Readers of the News no doubt took note yesterday (Dec. 4) of the troublesome plight of Mohammed Saleem Butt, FHS student from Lahore, Pakistan, who is suffering an acute educational money shortage as a result of the war in his native country some 12,000 miles away.

The young man expresses a keen determination to complete his education and return home to aid his fellow countrymen. He is working evenings at the Smoky Hill Country Club washing dishes to augment his meager income.

He is in debt for past academic expenses, due to the inability of his parents to send him money—his parents have lost everything in the war—and there is some question he will be able to complete the forthcoming semester.

The thought occurs that at this Christmas season of good cheer and fellowship some of a warm and understanding heart may wish to aid Mohammed and other foreign students at Fort Hays who may suffer the pangs of fiscal malnutrition.

If you feel inclined to lend a helping hand and buck, mail a check to the Fort Hays Student Endowment Fund. Money given this fund aids such students as Mohammed.

The Good Book says it is better to give than receive. Helping young people "buy" an education is in the finest tradition. And from the practical standpoint, any amount donated to the fund is tax deductible.

Make your check payable to the FHS Endowment Fund, Fort Hays State College in the city of Hays, Kansas.

Happy Holidays!

From the Hays Daily News, Dec. 5, 1965.

Pearcing Comments

With an overly long Christmas vacation staring me in the face, I've yet to decide where I'm going to spend it.

As a hardened veteran of staying Hays during vacations, the idea appeals to me again. There is a certain feeling about spending a vacation in town.

Even though I may try to stop it, I can't help feeling a little bit smug about braving the nearly empty library and student hang-outs alone.

I pat myself on the back for staying off of holiday highways and keeping the death toll down. Besides, I can always find a parking place no matter what time I come to campus.

The only unfortunate part is with all that spare time on my hands, I don't do any more studying than if I'd gone home. Sleeping late is easier because there is no one around to wake me up. An irritating alarm clock is easily turned off.

This is the period when a loner can really come into his own. He can sleep late and take his time about doing anything, knowing he has no classes to make or appointments to keep. It is an idle time shattered only by the end of vacation.

Another blessing is being away from your roommate for a few days. You know the kind. He (or she) always leaves the facuets dripping, the dirty dishes in the sink, sings off-key, has a noisy alarm clock, gets up early or studies a lot.

It's good always to have a few days without him. He probably feels the same way, which might be the reason he goes home.

The idea becomes more appealing as I think about it. Besides, by staying in town I can get a seat at the FHS-Colorado State College basketball game Saturday night without having to be there at 3:30 in the afternoon.—Dennis Pearce.

Question Asked About Speed Limits, Signs

To the Editor:

Even though I have been a student at FHS for four years I was recently surprised to learn that the residence hall areas have different speed limits than the campus.

Also, there are several one-way streets in the parking areas that are not marked.

Why aren't there signs in these areas to notify students about speed limits and one-way streets? I have looked over all of the streets in this area and so far have not been able to discover one speed limit sign.

Are students supposed to be clairvoyant to know about these laws or is this designed to increase the amount of revenue from traffic fines?

If nothing else, would you publish the speed limits in the residence hall areas?

John Ruff

Logan senior

Editor's Note: According to Wendell Wyatt, chief of the Campus Security Patrol, the speed limit is 20 miles per hour all over campus. The only exception is the one-way street behind McGrath Hall which is 10 miles per hour.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I'M MARKING YOU ALL ABSENT FOR THIS TEN-O'CLOCK LECTURE! OR IS IT NINE O'CLOCK?"

Right 'In' The Kisner

While studying in bed Sunday evening a great idea overcame my feeble, overtaxed and uneducated mind.

I discovered that to read a text while in a comfortable reclining position offers one tremendous advantage—mainly you don't fall out of chair when the excitement of study causes you to drift into sleep.

However, the subject at hand must be grades.

Since my earliest years of school, grades have bugged me. From grades one through six (the crucial childhood years) I amassed an unbelievable academic record.

In the third grade, much to everyone's surprise, I managed to pass conduct, recess and art during the same semester with D's.

Nevertheless, I still finished 47th academically in a class of 48. The kid—if a 22-year-old can classify—as such—who brought up the rear failed his Army mental exam upon graduating from the eighth grade.

Grades became even more important in high school. Instructors pointed out the importance of making good grades in order to gain scholarships, college acceptance and future employment. So, what am I doing here?

I managed to keep above C-level only by acing out physical education, while bombing out a foreign language—known in some circles as English.

In glancing over my college grades, it seems certain (by our modern grading system) that I'll flunk out of school and complete an unexciting life sweeping dirt and drunks off the streets of some small town. Possible, but not likely because I can't stand dust.

Anyway if the present grade trash continues, Uncle Sam will ship me to colorful Viet Nam. But I won't be alone, because a lot of my friends—according to our modern grading system—are stupid, too.—Gary Kisner.

Study Booths Automate Learning

Ann Arbor, Mich. (IP) — The year 1975 may see better than a thousand automated study carrels (booths) in the libraries and classroom buildings of the University of Michigan, according to Stanford C. Erickson, director of the Center for Research in Learning and Teaching.

"We are now developing the prototype of automated study carrels at the Center," he said. "It should be emphasized that in these carrels the student can do everything he does now—read a book, write a paper, or daydream."

The student will use the computer as a master teaching machine and will be able to study whatever subject matter the teacher has entered into this complex and versatile system.

The chief new equipment will be something like an electric typewriter, linked to a computer storage and retrieval system, says Erickson. Computer technology already exists to search for bibliographic references.

Special equipment is becoming available that will enable the student to receive photostatic copies of particular pages of articles and books that have been prepared for computer presentation.

To gain the "hardware" is not enough, Erickson warns. The experienced teacher must take the time to transcribe information from books, journals, lecture notes and research reports into a form appropriate for self-sufficient study by the individual.

He emphasized that faculty participation would seem to be the best guarantee to deter the misplaced use of automation.

COVER-UP GIRLS — With over-the-knee socks, FHS coeds have no bare legs. High socks are newcomers in midwest wardrobes but are gaining in popularity and styles range from quiet solid colors to racy stripes and patterns.

Long Socks Offer Style, Warmth for Legs

Pam Alspaw
Organizations Editor

It's all over (the knees, that is) for coeds this season as "over-the-knee" socks stretch into style.

From a serene beige to an exciting red and white, these long socks vary to compliment any outfit. "Match 'em or mix 'em" is the style.

Over-the-knees can exactly match a skirt and sweater or be a color which will blend with the plaid or stripe of the dress; either combination is stylish.

But the height of fashion is wearing like-patterned sweaters and socks with a solid-colored, hip-hugger skirt.

Two of the most popular socks materials are orlon blends and wool blends. They are knitted in either bulky solid texture or sheer lacy patterns.

FHS campus talk about this incoming fashion varies. Sharon Miller, WaKeeney sophomore, says, "I like them. They give variety, not the same rum-drum of just plain leg. You can experiment with them and they're warm."

Phil Hinz, Longmont, Colo., junior, thinks "they look very nice on some girls—some girls can wear them, some can't. But there's a time and place for them."

Jean Stouffer, dean of women, says, "Oh, I like them. I think they are attractive and practical. I don't know why all coeds don't wear them. They make short skirts look better!"

Representing the opposite view is Ralph Hormel, FHS graduate. "They are gaudy, atrocious and unbelievable. It is ridiculous what they pass off in the name of fashion."

Whatever the opinion is, it looks like "over-the-knee" socks are the upcoming trend on the FHS campus.

Annual Ball Plans Complete

Tiger Gymnasts Face Huskers; Coast To Easy Wins In Opener

Seeking its third win of the season, FHS's gymnastics squad will take on Nebraska University Saturday at Lincoln.

The Tigers have never beaten Nebraska, considered one of the toughest teams in the midwest.

The only pin of the contest came in the 152-pound class when letterman Bob Ruda, Atwood junior, pinned Hornet wrestler Bill Frost in 7:39.

Bengals Roar Past Antelopes 103-78

Fort Hays State's basketball squad will be looking for its third straight win over the Southern Colorado State College Indians when it travels to Pueblo, Colo., Saturday.

The Tigers dumped the Indians 86-76 at Sheridan Coliseum last Saturday night.

FHS downed the Indians in their third encounter last season in the annual Hutchinson Junior College-Fort Hays State double-header at Hutchinson.

The Indians had won the two previous meetings between the squads last season. With all three of last year's battles during January, this Saturday's game will mark the fifth time the two teams have met during 1965.

In last Saturday's action, the Tigers roared to an early 36-27 lead before the Indians caught fire to outscore the Bengals 21-9 in the closing moments of the half for a 48-45 lead at intermission.

Senior guard Bob Graham led the way for the Indians during the first half with a 16-point performance. Cleat Doyel paced the way for the Tigers with 15 first-half points.

Doyel finished the game with 24 points and 19 rebounds while the other four Tigers also broke double figures. Bill Strait and Jerry Maska contributed 15 each while Al Billinger netted 14 and Johnnie Locke 13.

Fort Hays State's Tigers rolled to their fourth straight win Tuesday night bombing Kearney (Neb.) State 103-78.

Five Bengals broke double figures with all 15 suited up for the contest seeing action. In all, 13 Bengals contributed to the scoring. Strait led the FHS attack with 20 points while Locke and Maska contributed 13 each. Locke paced the Tigers with 13 rebounds and Doyel added eight.

Rod Carston led the Kearney attack with 15 points and 10 rebounds. Three other Antelopes broke double figures as both coaches substituted freely.

The Tigers moved from an 18-18 deadlock to an unsurmountable 50-34 half time lead. The red-hot Bengals ran the margin to 75-45 with 11:53 left in the lopsided contest when Coach Chuck Brehm inserted the second unit which was quickly followed by a squad composed of four freshmen and a sophomore.

The Tigers shot .462 from the field and .704 from the line compared to the cool .347 and .684 of the Antelopes.

In Friday night's contest against Lincoln University of Jefferson City, Mo., the Tigers opened a 48-27 halftime lead into a 57-31 margin then held on against a furious Lincoln rally for a 89-78 win.

Doyel paced the Tigers, scoring 28 points while grabbing 13 rebounds. Maska added 16 and Strait 12. The Tigers received help on the boards from Strait and Locke who contributed nine and eight caroms, respectively.

Four Lincoln players netted double figures with Milton Williams and Jim Brown leading the way with 15 each.

Restriction Set On Parking Spaces

About 50 parking spaces on the north and east sides of the construction site for the new library are now restricted, according to Dr. Bill Jellison, dean of men.

The area has been restricted to enable the construction firm to move equipment in and out of the site. The spaces have been painted yellow.

Jellison said he realized this caused an inconvenience for students, but said "I hope they'll be patient for a year, then we will have a new library and a 300-car parking lot."
