Summer Drama To Open With Original Production

An original play, "Grotesquerie," by Miss Harriet Ketchum, will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday, June 22 in Felten-Start Theater. The one-act play is based on life at the Good Samaritan Home in Ellis. Miss Ketchum, associate professor of drama at Fort Hays State, has based the main characters, Dr. Hildreth and Mrs. Adams, on her parents, the late Dr. and Mrs. P. V. Ketchum and several residents Mrs. Ketchum knew at the home.

The play, completed over a year ago, has been praised by a well-known dramatist William Inge. Inge said of the play when he was a guest lecturer at Kansas University, "I like it very, very much."

Other than the play, the 16-member theater workshop class will present selections representing childhood, a college-age group, and poetry by Robert Frost.

The production will be free to the public.

Members of the workshop include Norma Basgall, Bison; Marsha Cotropia, Holyrood; Ronald Daniels, Tribune; Martha Dreiling, Larned; Betty Fitzsimmons, Colby; Thelma Gentz, Ness City; Charlotte Gaston, Bucyrus; Wanda Germany, Palco; Anna Herman, Lincoln.

State College Money

Fort Hays State College students poured more than $8½ million into the local economy during the 1965-1966 academic year.

So says a survey conducted by Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity at FHS. A five-man economic survey committee headed by Ronald D. Harkness, a Hays junior majoring in business administration, conducted the survey to cover the school year since September, 1965, to include July 31, 1966. The committee's findings, based on a 4,600 student enrollment, also allows for future increases due to an estimated 500 students per year enrollment hike.

While the fortunes of the city of Hays don't rise and fall on the college, $8½ million is a lot of money. And the report doesn't include nonconsumer expenditures such as tuition, fees, organization fees and campus and commuter spending, most of which finds its way into the city pocket. Not to mention the money spent by 225 faculty members, the 290 staff members or the college spending. All in all, a tidy package.

Students spent the most on living expenses — food and housing. The total bill to feed 4,600 hungry collegians was $1,776,336. Their housing cost was $1,271,458. Still in the million-dollar bracket was that third important item, the car. It consumed $1,132,816.

More was spent on entertainment, $642,850, and clothing, $430,882, than on school supplies, $430,774. Insurance bought was worth $269,606, utilities gained $251,666 and for personal services, students spent $206,678. The other categories surveyed included laundry, professional services, appliances, furniture and the like.

Contrasted with a similar survey in the 1961-1962 school year, a record of growth is obvious. During that rating period, 2,620 students spent $3,325,000.

At this rate of increase, the future looks bright for Fort Hays State. And growing with the city, the college contributes its substantial share to the economy of Hays.

This survey would seem to deflate the critics who say the college isn't worth the trouble it causes. And the critics who say that if it were not for the college, the city of Hays would dry up and blow away with the Kansas dust.

He-Man Image Has Appeal For Masculine Cigarette Smokers

Is it true that more masculine men smoke cigarettes with a more masculine advertising image?

Yes, according to a recent study done by Linda Shank, Scott City junior at FHS.

The study, made in an experimental psychology class taught by Kenneth Smoot, associate professor of psychology, involved two popular brands of cigarettes, X and Y.

Brand X, usually shown in an outdoor setting, carried a strong masculine appeal with emphasis on hunting, fishing and other robust activities.

Brand Y, also advertised in an outdoor setting, usually centers around a couple sitting on a bridge or next to a stream enjoying the serenity of the country rather than emphasizing ruggedness and action.

Two groups of FHS men who habitually smoke either Brand X or Y were asked to participate in the study. The masculinity level of each group was then determined by administering the Guilford-Zimmerman Temperament Survey. The survey, a personality test, determines the degree of masculinity by answers to such questions as: When a parent, teachers or boss scolds you, do you feel like weeping? Does the sight of blood frighten you? Would you like to go hunting with a rifle for wild game.

Miss Shank's study affirmed that 80 per cent of the men who smoked Brand X ranked high in masculine characteristics. Only 20 per cent of those smoking Brand Y ranked significantly high in masculinity, and 20 per cent of the Brand Y smokers scored only 11 of 30 masculine characteristics.

Pearcing Comments

A University of Michigan psychiatrist says that sports can provide an opportunity for expression of aggressive and sadistic impulses.

Anyone who has been on the receiving end of a body block by a 250-pound tackle will testify to and agree with this. But the good doctor may have started a new trend in sports reporting. Think of the stories in the daily newspaper if this thing catches on.

CLOBBER, Mich.—O. (Mangler) Rex, mangy, mauling Monster-man of Sub-normal University, battered his way to conference honors today in being named "Most Sadistic Footballer of the Year."

Mangler, a four-year litter man, was tapped for the honor because the panel of judges felt his record of 16 fatal injuries, 748 broken limbs and 4,957 opponents carried unconscious off of the field marked him as one of the all-time greats in football history.

Besides, the entire panel was terrified of him.

A coarse, slovenly, foul-mouthed hulk of sub-humanity on the outside Mangler is just as rotten on the inside. But (and never let us forget it) he loves his equally obnoxious mother.

Baseball can get rough too. In fact it all began with Ty Cobb and his famous flashing spikes-high slide into second base.

ALTER EGO Ma—Miko Mech-enilli slicing second baseman put 27 men in the hospital in today's game between the Sox and the Braves.

Miko was in rare form today as he brained four umpires before the game even started over some alleged mis-call. The high point in the game came as he knocked three pitchers out of the box.

One is not expected to live.

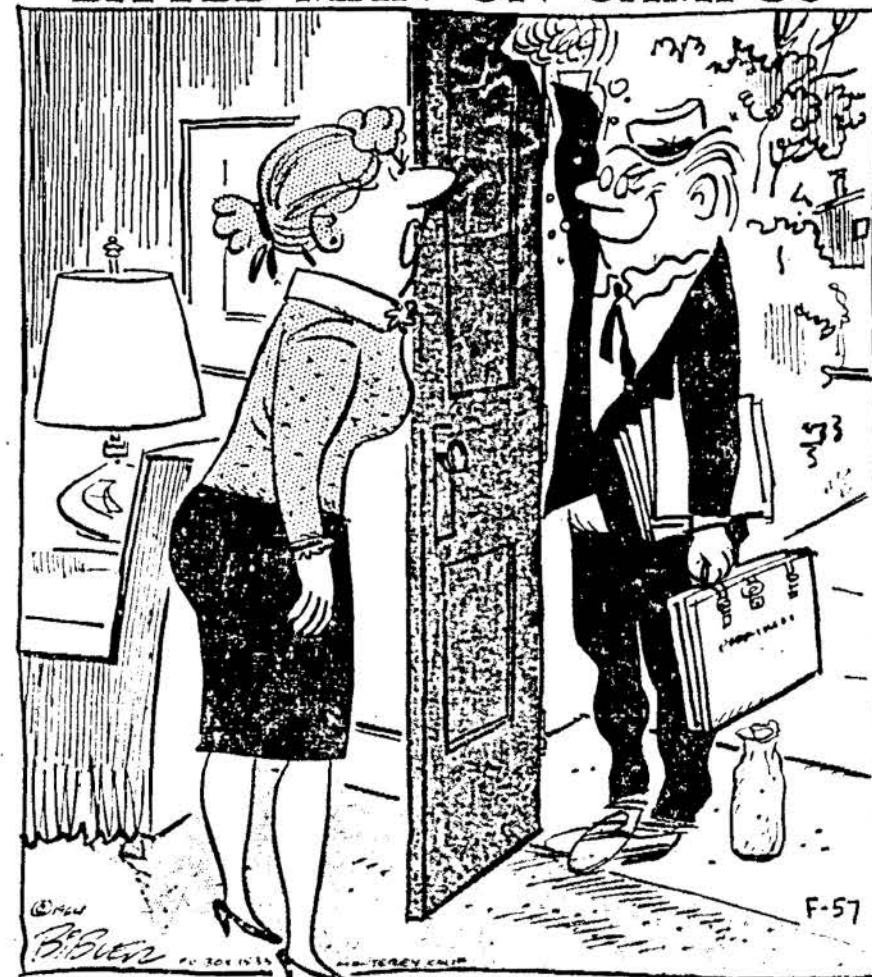

COUNTRYSIDE COUNTRY CLUB—Mrs. Lucy Libido in her usual reckless bridge game, grand-slammed 14 times today.

Mrs. Libido was finally pulled away from her unfortunate partner who trumped her ace, but not before mortal injuries were sustained.

SNACK, Pa.—The twiddly-wink twosome, Flip and Plink, broke up today after many years of international competition play.

Doctors say Flip will live, but they say if they remove the twiddly-wink from his forehead, he wouldn't survive the operation. — Dennis Pearce.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Student Spending . . .

the myth that they're "only a hamburger crowd," students spent $774,824 on groceries alone, with another $350,106 passed into cash registers in local restaurants.

To meet their shelter needs, students paid $1,271,458 in rental payments. Of interest to Hays homeowners is the figure $489,486 — the total rental costs to students for off-campus apartment or rooming house residence.

Proving that college life isn't all books and study — and the "social side" is a prominent one — is the $642,850 paid out for entertainment.

And it's not difficult to "figure" why the FHS student body is generally considered to be a well-dressed one — $430,882 was spent on the latest fashions.

Close behind the expense for clothing is the $430,744 expenditure for school supplies — text books, reference books, typewriters, etc.

Other items listed in the report, and the amount students spent on each:

Insurance, $269,060; utility payments, $251,666; personal services, (cosmetics, jewelry, gifts, barber and beauty shops), $206,678; laundry and cleaning, $187,588; professional services (doctors, drugs, hospital and legal expenses), $178,782; donations (scholarship funds, United Fund, etc.), $94,300; appliances, $85,882; furniture, $69,598; taxes, $41,262; and newspapers and magazines, $34,868.

Using the 4,600 student enrollment as a base, a further breakdown would show that each student spent $1,911 for consumer purchases in Hays last year, or $173 each per month.

Supporting the belief that college enrollment contributes heavily to the business life of Hays is the comparison of the current study and a similar one made in 1961-62.

During that academic year, students spent $3,325,000 — some $5 million less than they did this past year. (Enrollment, of course, has increased about 2,00 since the last survey.)

Designed as a marketing aid for the college, local businesses and organizations and other interested parties, the Alpha Kappa Psi survey, Harkness hopes, paints a vivid and meaningful picture of how the student contributes to the local economy.

"The future economic stimulation created by student spending is even brighter," Harkness says.

Besides Harkness, who is from Hays, the fraternity's survey committee was comprised of Harry Judd, Tucson, Ariz., Paul Jennison, Healy; Gordon Reynolds, Dodge City, and Verlin Edwards, Lucas.

Retirement Nears For 2 Instructors

Three Fort Hays State faculty members are retiring this year, two at the end of the summer session.

Heading the list is Miss Lucille

Schmutz

A graduate of Kansas State University, Schmutz taught vocational agriculture in high schools for 10 years. While at FHS, he utilized new methods of conservation and used the college farm as a practical laboratory for his classes.

Hugh Burnett, who retired June 1, is a native of Greeley County and came to Hays as a student in the 1920's. After graduating from FHS, he taught in rural schools in Greeley County, was principal at Tribune and for eight years was superintendent at Weskan.

At FHS he has contacted almost every high school in the western half of the state, visited with thousands of parents and youth to encourage higher education and organized the "Ambassador Program" in which students act as representatives of the college in their home communities.

Career in Medicine Stems From Part-Time Work

Accompanying a friend who was applying for a secretarial position helped determine a career for FHS coed Ruth Eickbush, Hays junior.

Miss Eickbush, now halfway through her nurse education program, might have been a psychology major if her friend had taken the part-time secretarial position at an animal hospital. The friend wasn't interested, but Eickbush was and she took the job to help finance her college education.

From doing bookwork at the hospital, Miss Eickbush extended her services to assist the doctors while they treated their patients. She sterilized instruments and syringes, administered oxygen and assisted in surgery.

Then she began thinking seriously about her own future plans. She realized she is vitally interested in the health not only of small animals, but of man as well, and made the change from psychology to nursing.

Surgery for animals is similar to human situations, she found, such as gall-stone operations, or administering oxygen. Working with the veterinarians has tested her physical stamina and attitudes toward hospital odors and situations and helped convince her that she preferred a career in nursing and not psychology.

Miss Eickbush received her nurse's cap in April and now works two mornings per week at Hadley Memorial Hospital in connection with her academic training at FHS. She is continuing to work part-time at the animal hospital as well, and in September will have completed five years with the veterinarians.

Last year she was granted a fee scholarship from Hadley Hospital and this month she received a $100 scholarship for 1966-67 from the Order of Rainbow for Girls in Kansas.

At FHS, she is consistently listed on the dean's honor roll, is active as treasurer for Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority, and is a member of Nurses' Club.

Honor Roll Lists 896; Cheryl Cain Recognized

A total of 896 FHS students earned recognition on the Dean's Honor Roll for the spring semester, compared with 765 for the same term last year.

The honor roll is drawn from the list of 4,033 undergraduate students enrolled for a minimum of 10 hours. To earn honor roll mention, a student must average 2.0 (B) or better for the semester.

Cheryl Cain, Hays senior, who has completed four consecutive semesters with all A's, heads the list of honor students. Also earning special recognition are eight other students who have earned straight A's for two consecutive semesters.

Enrollment Nets 6.6% Increase

Students from 90 counties, 27 other states and 11 foreign countries make up the summer school enrollment total of 2,221 at FHS, an increase of 6.6 per cent over the enrollment for the same date a year ago.

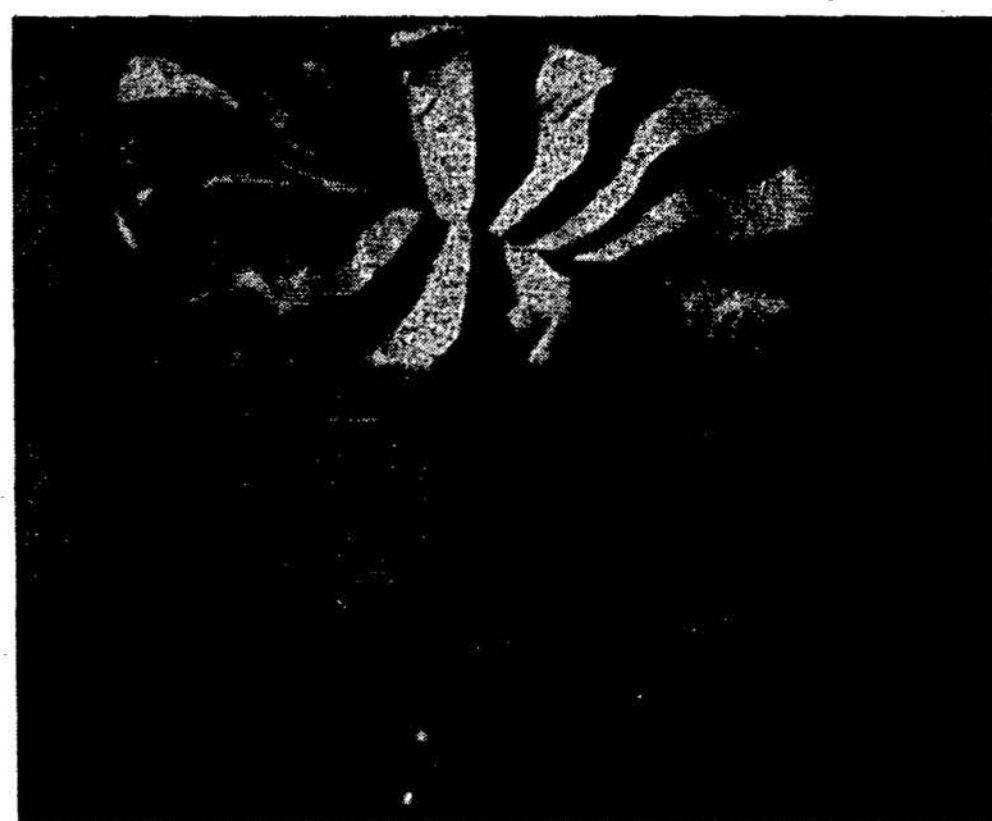

Registrar S. V. Dalton expects another 80 to 100 to enroll for remaining workshops, bringing the total to 2,300.

Last year, 2,084 were enrolled by mid-June and 2,141 was the official summer total by the end of the session. The largest increase is in graduate enrollment, with about 100 more graduate students registered this summer. Graduate students make up nearly 40 per cent of the summer total.

This year's summer enrollment includes 1,269 women, an increase of 90 over last summer, and 952 men, 47 more than in 1965.

The enrollment by classes, with the 1965 totals in parentheses:

Freshmen, 197 (188). Sophomores, 234 (212). Juniors, 289 (246). Seniors, 444 (456). Graduates 881 (783). Post-graduates, 105 (123). Education specialists, 18 (not listed). Unclassified, 53 (81).

ANOTHER SAFE DESCENT—David Ayres, Smith Center senior, lands after making a parachute jump from 7,500 feet as part of a skydiving demonstration for the Aerospace Workshop Wednesday morning at the Hays Municipal Airport.

Over 500 Frosh Pre-Enroll; 5 Advance Sessions Remain

In three pre-enrollment sessions held this summer, 536 freshmen chose fall semester classes and over 1,000 more are expected to pre-enroll in five remaining sessions.

Advance enrollment and orientation programs are scheduled for Friday, Tuesday, July 12, 19 and 26.

Several sections of freshman courses are closed and advisers have received notification from Registrar S. V. Dalton to utilize other sections of these classes.

Closed are Sections A through D and F of fundamentals and appreciation of art; Section B of office machines; Section B of principles of accounting and Section C of introduction to music.

Too few of the 7:30 a.m. sections are being filled and not enough freshmen are enrolling in foreign languages.

Advisers are urged to enroll freshmen in specified sections of classes and to avoid others. They are:

Biology — Utilize Section A, 7:30 a.m.

Business — Intermediate shorthand, Section B has 23 of 30 enrollments.

History — Modern Civilization, Utilize Section A, 7:30 a.m.

Psychology — Avoid Sections B and C.

Seniors Elect Officers; Choose Committee Heads

Gary Howland, Hays, was elected president of the summer senior class at a meeting held recently.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ollie Taton, Seibert, Colo., vice-president and Mrs. Doretha Barnett, Glen Elder, secretary-treasurer.

Voluntary contributions for a class gift may be made at the Alumni Office, Picken 200.

John Briery, FHS graduate, has earned a three-term assistantship for advanced study at the University of Missouri at Rolla.

Briery, who received his bachelor of science degree at FHS this spring, is doing graduate work in computer science. His assistantship runs this summer and during both the fall and spring semesters.

He will return to FHS in August to assist in the Computer Science Conference for High School Students.

This is less than previous summer drives because graduate students used a separate enrollment line. Collier said that graduate students desiring to contribute may do so by mail.

The amount contributed will be equally divided between United Student Aid Fund and National Defense Fund. With matching funds, this will make available $1,266 for USAF and $1,035 for NDF.

The "Drive for Dollars" during the 1966 summer enrollment netted $202.70, according to Kent Collier, executive director of the Endowment Association.

26 Tigers On Honor Roll

A total of 26 FHS athletes are listed on the dean's honor roll for the Spring semester of the 1965-66 academic year.

Leading the list of athletes on the honor roll is tennis letterman Kim Gottschalk, Hays sophomore, with a 2.94 grade index. Students must have a 2.0 (B) to make the honor roll.

Other athletes earning top grade averages were basketball letterman Larry Soice, Montezuma junior, 2.80; football player Ron Darst, Bucklin junior, 2.71; Lowell Smith, senior trackster from Clyde, 2.63.

The football team led the list of athlete-scholars with seven squad members listed on the honor roll. The track team listed six men and the basketball team followed with four.

None of the athletes earned a perfect 3.0 grade index compared with two straight A athletes listed last semester.

Honor athletes for the spring semester are:

Bengal Tracksters To Run At AAU Championships

Three members of Fort Hays State's conference champion track squad will participate in the National AAU Decathlon Championship this weekend at Salina.

Leading the list of FHS entries in the two-day meet will be John Mason, Phillipsburg sophomore. The ace distance runner will be running the mile, a special event in the meet. Mason, who won the mile in the conference meet, placed third in the NAIA nationals recently.

High jumpers Bob Schmidt, Ellis senior and Rod Williams, Plainville senior, will both compete in the high jump, another special event at the decathlon.

Both men, who closed out successful track careers at FHS this year, hold the school record at 6-10 $\frac{1}{2}$. Williams won the conference title with a jump of 6-10.

Fort Hays State's track coach Alex Francis will act as referee at the AAU meet. Francis led his team to a second straight conference championship this season, and to third in the national championships for the second straight year.

Grants Available For Foreign Study

Application forms and information for FHS students interested in the U.S. Government scholarships provided by the Fulbright-Hays Act are available from Dr. Paul A. Graber, professor of language, in Picken 312.

The competition for the 1967-68 graduate grants for academic study or research abroad, and for professional training in the creative and performing arts, opened May 1.
