A FADING WINTER SUN shines its dying rays on the cold waters of nearby Cedar Bluffs.

Tutors handy for last-minute cram sessions

BY LINDA MEIER
Copy Editor

Moments of truth will dawn for many Fort Hays State students as they swing into the last weeks of the fall semester and final exams.

Women's Leadership Organization and individual students offer a possible solution for those students floundering in last-minute cram sessions—tutoring.

WLO has sponsored a tutoring service for several years. Members turn cards in to the Dean of Students Office at the beginning of each semester and students needing extra help are then directed to one of the tutors available to them.

The organization also sends notices to all faculty members notifying them of tutoring services and asking them to contact WLO members if they feel a student should have help.

Not Being Used

"These services are offered throughout the fall and spring semesters as well as during finals," Donalea Fink, Downs senior and WLO president, emphasized. "However, I don't think these services are being used enough," she added.

She expressed concern about the apathy of students in regard to using the tutoring services and her belief that faculty members could help by informing students of tutors available to them.

"Many students feel that if they can't get it on their own then they just can't get it at all," Miss Fink commented.

She feels the services are valuable, particularly for freshmen and sophomore students who are recently out of high school and have not yet adjusted to college studying.

Service To Students

Students offer a variety of reasons for providing their services as tutors.

Lynn Corn, Lawrence senior, first offered her services through WLO. She emphasizes tutoring special education courses but said that few students have asked for her help. "Of course there are not that many students in special education and we all know each other and help each other out," she added.

"Anything in biology," sums up the tutoring services offered by Ken Krug, Torrington, Wyo., senior. "I know the problems I had when I was in my first years of college," he said. "Now I can put to good use the knowledge I've been able to gain."

"I knew a girl who did it last year and it sounded like fun," Anita Wilkens, McDonald senior, said of her reason for tutoring. She hopes to tutor students in geography and literature.

Each tutor, however, feels that students could take more advantage of the services offered. As one tutor surmized, "Maybe it's just apathy on the part of the students."

Union annex opens in mid-April

A new place to hang out

(First in a Series)

BY TOM TOEPFER

Assistant Managing Editor

Students and faculty will soon have a new place to hang out. The spot: the new addition to the Memorial Union.

Scheduled to be completed in mid-April, the Union annex will abound with opportunity for fun and recreation with the basement heading the list of the "fun spots." Pocket billiards and snooker tables, bowling lanes, table tennis and room for a snack bar and booths will all be found in the basement.

A theater-television lounge with a capacity for 120 people will also be on the ground floor. According to Lynn Rogers, Memorial Union director, the theater lounge will be fully carpeted. The seating arrangement, however, has not been completed.

Tentative plans include equipping the lounge with pillows to create a relaxed atmosphere. Students or faculty can then "drop in and spread out" and relax if they wish.

Film Series

The Program Council plans to run a series of films which may include such classics as W. C. Fields pictures and Charlie Chaplin movies. In addition to these, recently made feature-length films will be shown.

When films are not being run, the lounge will be used for television viewing throughout the day.

Pool fans will be interested in the eight pocket billiards and two snooker tables that will be available in the basement. Tentative prices for table use will be 60 cents an hour for one, with the cost prorated for additional players.

Rogers expressed an interest in getting billiards tournaments underway. He said other unions have exceptional billiards programs. He plans to have a qualified instructor for students and faculty who wish to take up billiards or snooker. The atmosphere in the billiards area will be such that girls and students with their dates will feel free to participate.

Bowling Alley

Perhaps one of the most important innovations in the annex will be the 12-lane bowling alley. The lanes will be fully equipped, and balls and shoes will be provided.

An experienced bowler and qualified instructor, Bill Moyer of Hays, has been hired to run the bowling alley.

Rogers said that beginning next fall the lanes will be used for bowling classes which now meet at a local bowling alley. Wayne McConnell, associate professor of HPER, will be in charge of the bowling classes.

Bowling students will be aided by television instant replay cameras which will be installed on two of the lanes. The camera will be fundamental in visually teaching the new bowlers proper form and style in swing and follow-through. The instructor will be able to show the student what he is doing right, and of course what he is doing wrong. Plans also include league bowling for students and faculty. Bowling prices will be very competitive with those of other bowling alleys, with the Union lanes being somewhat less expensive.

Lounge

The lounge in the basement will have a capacity for 100. It will feature a coffee-house atmosphere in Spanish decor.

All the furniture for the basement lounge will be hand-made. There will be individual booths and a coke bar. Rogers said the room may be rented for private parties on weekends. He said it will have "an excellent atmosphere."

The Union will be open 15 hours a day. All the recreational facilities will be available during these hours.

Plans are also being made to open the facilities for more hours on weekends to allow the students and faculty to obtain full benefit of the recreational opportunities available.

And none stayed home . . .

This little beef went to market

Forty-five FHS cattle went to market Wednesday to be auctioned off at the Hays Livestock Commission in Hays and the Farm Land Industries and Beef Packing Co. in Garden City.

The cattle, which were born and raised at the college farm, were marketed by students in the feeding and marketing of beef cattle class taught by Andrew Reigel, associate professor of agriculture.

Averaging 1,050 pounds a head, the 45 cattle have been a class project as 21 students have cared for the cattle since September.

"The students have charted the weights and gains of the cattle and kept track of the money they would have lost or made if the cattle would belong to them," Reigel said.

"Today the students will check the carcasses in Garden City and see the results of their work. The carcasses are to be graded by a representative from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and we are hoping most of the cattle will grade choice, which is next to prime; the highest choice," Reigel said.

The proceeds of the cattle will be used for the operation of the FHS farm.

Students

The students in the class are seniors Jim Bobinmyer, Herndon; Alan Guttery, Altun; Roger Perkins, La Crosse; Ivan Hausa, Hays; Sam Atherton, Fredonia; Arlo Smith, Independence; Dan File, Beloit; Steve Miller, Luray; John Porter, Glen Elder; Vernon Tillberg, Salina; Lynn Lightner, Garden City.

Daryl West, Ruleton; Everett Miller, Scott City; Wesley Garard, Osage City; Henry Miller, Sublette; Dennis Bretz, Studley; Jack Gardner, Topeka; Bruce Hachmeister, Codell; Jim Litton, Beloit; Allen Stoops, Sawyer; and Pete Johnson of Hays, who is not a student but has been auditing the class this semester.

Students survive finals with kits from 'home'

"Survival Kits" will again be arriving at over 400 Fort Hays State students' doors to make exam study a little easier.

Packaged survival kits of fruit, drink, candy and snacks were purchased by individual parents to be delivered as gifts to their daughter or son as they begin preparation for final exams.

For the second semester, survival kit orders provided funds for the scholarship program Project Opportunity, now in its third year.

Project Opportunity, honoring Martin Luther King, annually awards a one-year complete scholarship to the Hays campus for a needy minority group student. Survival kit orders, at $3 a kit, plus cash donations and pledges finance the scholarship.

Both faculty and student volunteers are working on the project's committee to raise funds. H. J. Schmeller, assistant professor of history, and Gordon Davidson, associate professor of history, coordinated the activities, while History Club, Phi Alpha Theta and Sophomore Women's Honorary members volunteered time to package and deliver the kits.

Hays Dillon store sold the food for the kits at cost to the committee.

Comedy film Sunday

"Deserves only the superlatives . . . A cause for double rejoicing. Filled with social satire and comment that sparkles with topicality. The costumes and color are enchanting," says Judith Crist of the New York Herald Tribune, about the Comedie Francaise production of "The Marriage of Figaro."

This eighteenth century comedy will be presented by the Little Theatre Film Series at 7 p.m. Sunday in Felten-Start Theater.

When the play was written it was subjected to four years of controversy and censorship because of its ridicule of the decadent aristocracy. The plot evolves around the conflict between the vassal Figaro and his master Count Almaviva that climaxes with the marriage of Figaro to the Countess Almaviva's lady in waiting.

The film is free and everyone is invited to attend.

A Little Theatre meeting will follow but according to Lloyd Frerer, director of Little Theatre, anyone may leave after the film without attending the meeting.

Health Office nurse resigns

A familiar face was missing from the staff at the Student Health Center when students and faculty returned from Christmas vacation. Mrs. Inez Baxter, R.N., has resigned after a 13-year tenure at Fort Hays State College.

Prior to 1956, Mrs. Baxter and her late husband Arthur, owned and operated a flower shop in Hays.

In her professional capacity, Mrs. Baxter served as a superintendent and supervisor in hospitals and sanitariums and as a school nurse in the Hays Public Schools.

Mrs. Baxter's resignation was effective Dec. 31.

'Mr. Average Instructor' at FHS

He's difficult to find

BY MIKE HAAS
Of the Leader Staff

"Mr. Average Instructor" at Fort Hays Kansas State College appears to be something more than average when compared with the norm among local labor forces.

A random sample survey of 33 FHS teaching faculty conducted during the week of November 17 showed the average teacher works 55 hours per week performing college or college-related duties. On-campus work consumes 39 of those hours.

"Overtime"

The 55-hour figure is unusual when contrasted with the current norm of a 40-hour work week. It differs also in that the term "overtime" does not figure in the salary of the college instructor.

Of that 55 total hours, "Mr. Average" spends 13 hours teaching in the classroom and another four hours conducting laboratory classes.

Further breakdown of the total workload shows that FHS teaching faculty average 14 hours preparing class lectures and lessons. The widest range of responses from low to high appeared in this category. One instructor answered that he worked only one hour per week preparing lectures and lessons, while another said he required 32 hours for these tasks.

Grading, Counseling

The preparation and grading of tests, another of the perfunctory chores handled by the instructor, takes up almost six and one-half hours per week.

The job of counseling and advising students consumes an average of six hours. The range of responses was also wide in this category, going from no time spent in counseling to one instructor who reported devoting 25 hours per week to this educational responsibility.

The average number of hours per week spent on college-related work or activities away from the campus was 12. However, most instructors answered that none of their time was consumed in this area.

The question of how many hours were spent in sponsored or financed research received only three responses, making the question insufficiently valid to apply an average.

The survey was conducted in Advanced Reporting 50 as a class project in techniques of surveys and polls. A random sampling of 70 faculty members among all full-time teaching faculty received the questionnaires and 33 replied within the week allotted for the survey.

Tentative plans now underway for aerospace education major

Tentative plans are underway for a unique addition to the Kansas aerospace education program, according to Dr. Gordon Price, professor of education and director of Fort Hays State's aerospace education program.

"We have proposed and are in the process of developing a master's degree program in aerospace education," Dr. Price said.

First Of Its Kind

If approved, this plan will become Kansas' first master degree program in aerospace education.

Aimed primarily at elementary and secondary teachers and school administrators, this "combination-type program will combine aerospace education with other fields such as science or elementary education," Dr. Price explained.

Plans for the tentative schedule call for its incorporation into the 1970-71 school term. "We anticipate it will enroll between 20 and 30 students if the proposed program is accepted by the Graduate Division," Dr. Price said.

Degree Valuable

According to Dr. Price, such a degree in aerospace education is valuable in terms of improving and modernizing education in every field. It up-grades the material, provides administrators with insight into government programs, and illustrates how to use the modern media for instructing.

Dr. Price also hopes eventually "to see FHS put in several courses in aerospace education in the regular semester. This would provide college students with the opportunity to secure private pilot's licenses, along with knowledge and information of modern science and technology."

At present FHS conducts a summer Aerospace Education Workshop and lab school under the direction of Dr. Price. Since its inception in 1961, the program has risen from a beginning enrollment of 14 to last summer's total of 84.

FHS museum named to honor Sternberg

Fort Hays State's internationally famous museum has been officially named the Sternberg Museum in honor of the late George F. Sternberg.

Sternberg, who died in October at the age of 86, was an internationally recognized paleontologist and former faculty member. He served as curator of the geological, paleontological, natural history, archeological and historical museums at FHS from 1927 until his retirement in 1961.

Sternberg spent most of his life in Western Kansas where he probed the chalk beds of Gove and Logan Counties. The Hays museums acquired priceless specimens of prehistoric life and gained international recognition for the holdings through the efforts of Sternberg.

Three generations of Sternbergs combed Western Kansas for fossils. Included were Dr. George M. Sternberg, former surgeon-general of the U.S. Army and early post surgeon at Fort Harker and Fort Hays; Charles H. Sternberg, the younger brother of George M. and a pioneer "fossil hunter"; and his sons George F., Charles M., and Levi Sternberg.

A memorial fund in honor of George F. Sternberg was also recently established.

Three programs offered for foreign study

How would you like to study in a foreign country a year? Rotary International is sponsoring a program offering this opportunity.

There are three programs available. One is for persons receiving a bachelor's degree this spring and would be able to go abroad for the 1970-1971 academic year. Another program is available for students who will receive their degree in the spring of 1971. They would study abroad during academic 1971-1972. The third program is for students who have completed two years of college and could go abroad during the 1971-1972 academic year.

Opportunities are available in 146 countries. Two basic requirements are that the student be unmarried and have a command of the language of his chosen country.

Students interested in this program should contact Dr. Richard Barnett, executive assistant to the president. Barnett said the program is an excellent opportunity and that all expenses are paid including air travel to and from the country of study.

Editorial Views

Somebody's tired of the Tiger

There's a move afoot to change the Fort Hays State mascot.

Headed by Dr. Don Randall, associate professor of psychology, a Faculty Senate committee is investigating the possibilities of such a move.

Wayne McConnell, associate professor of physical education and member of the committee, addressed the Student Senate Tuesday with a view to getting student reaction. McConnell said, "Unless there is overwhelming support for the idea it will be dropped."

Inaccurate Symbol

It seems that a number of people feel that the tiger is not a symbol which accurately represents the Fort Hays State heritage.

It was heard said by a radical minority that perhaps relevancy was irrelevant anyway. After all, Willis Reed does not wear knickerbockers — he would be laughed out of New York City — and the only bird seen in St. Louis lately is generally in the stands.

The core of the idea is that the FHS heritage is inextricably wound up with the old Fort Hays and its famous (or infamous?) Seventh Cavalry. And from coast to coast it is known that they were no tigers — on offense or defense.

Fame A Factor

In fact, the fame of the Seventh might be a factor in favor of change. Everyone has heard of Dodge City and its cowboys and everyone has heard of the Seventh Cavalry. Why not associate this already famous name with Hays, America?

So suggestions have been put to change Tigers to Lancers or Longknives. It would then be the Lancers' lot to go round the conference table piercing all those winning bubbles. And then, like Texas Tech and its Red Raider, FHS could put on a cavalry charge each time it scored a touchdown or basket.

Other arguments have been heard for different names. Buffaloes? Cowboys? Or how about Gophers or Jackrabbits?

But if the mascot is changed to something connected with old Fort Hays, it might give an alarming boost to the Indians on our schedule. However, with our new general and a new lieutenant, Fort Hays might have a chance to improve its 0-1 record.

A deflated basketball, an entry in Ripley's Believe It or Not and a severe case of frostbite may be in store for the men of McGrath Hall Feb. 23.

The gallant fads are planning a dribbling relay (with a basketball) all the way to Omaha as a prelude to the Tiger-Indian game. The excursion will cover some 300-plus miles.

But what's even more incredible is that the Student Senate voted — though by a slight margin — to give the group $100 to help defray expenses. A spokesman for the group earlier estimated the total cost of the journey to run around $560.

Dribblers never had it so good.

Other papers say . . .

C. O.'s GET PAY CUT

Conscientious objectors serving in Kansas will be paid the same salary as a military private beginning Jan. 1, 1970.

In some cases, especially where the objectors served their two-year terms in hospitals and medical centers, their pay will be cut by almost 50 per cent.

Bob Brandt, executive director of the Department of Administration in Topeka, said, "It was a fairly unanimous decision on the part of the council to lower the

C. O.'s pay rate to $282, the same as that of a military private. Examples were presented to us where in some cases they were paid over $500 a month." (Kansas State Collegian, Dec. 19, 1969.)

THE TOP 10

The editorial writers of the University Daily Kansan voted for the top 10 newsmakers of the 1960's. John F. Kennedy, 35th President of the United States, was overwhelmingly the top vote getter. Second place went to Martin Luther King Jr., who like Kennedy was assassinated.

The other eight in order are: Lyndon B. Johnson, the Soviet and American astronauts, Ho Chi Minh, Charles de Gaulle, Mao Tse-tung, Robert F. Kennedy, Pope John and Alexander Dubcek.

Top news stories according to the staff were in order: The Vietnam War, Soviet and American space programs, civil rights, the assassination of President Kennedy, student protest, the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr., Cuban Missile Crisis, the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, Dr. Christian Barnard's heart transplants and the Six-Day War in the Mid-East. (University Daily Kansan, Dec. 117, 1969.)

Somebody's still getting burned

It's like a new toaster with a faulty lightness-darkness selector. Something is always getting burned.

And that's the story with the new lottery system and the nation's first random draft drawing in 27 years. Somebody's still getting burned.

Experts are now claiming that the lottery drawing really wasn't random, that more draft eligible men had birthdays falling in the latter months, causing an inequality in drawings.

Shock

Perhaps the biggest shock in store for the men in the random pool was the fact that many of the "high numbers" might also be taken.

In meeting January's lower-than-usual call, federal officials recommended that state Selective Service boards use only men with lottery No. 30 and below. That worked fine.

But if the January draft call—and the inclusive numbers taken—are multiplied by the number of months—twelve—that means there's a good chance that men with numbers up to 360 may be called.

But federal officials are quick to point out that this isn't so because the size of the quotas and the number of undrafted 1-A men available to the draft is constantly changing.

The original estimate was that "the lower one-third in the numbers bracket would be sure to go, the middle one-third might go, and the highest third probably would not go." And the officials are still sticking to their guns here.

But the draft pool in January is always small compared to February when many college graduates lose their 2-A classifications. June's the other "peak" month, once again swelled by college graduates.

Still Hope

So it looks like time once again is a major factor in the draft. But there's still some hope for those still sweating it.

President Nixon has appointed a fact-finding committee to investigate the possibility of an all-volunteer armed forces. And some sources close to Nixon are saying that if such a plan is feasible, Congress will waste no time in putting it into effect.

A great day for toasters.

POLLUTION FIGHT

Pollution is in trouble in Kansas. An organized move to halt it is in the making.

In a recent meeting with several of the college student council presidents from the state schools, Dr. Marvin A. Harder, one of the governor's education advisers, related a plan to use students as a pressure group for air and water pollution legislation.

Dr. Harder asked the student presidents to help him gather the names of students who were interested in the problems of pollution and willing to work to see them solved.

A large conference is planned Feb. 1 to "primarily educate the students to pollution problems in Kansas." Armed with facts and figures, Dr. Harder reasoned that student power could be channeled to the constructive cause of anti-pollution.

The Gustads say thank you

Fort Hays State Community,

The welcome extended to all of us by the members of the FHSKSC community and the people of western Kansas has been the warmest we have ever received anywhere.

Even so, we are deeply touched by the additional kindnesses granted us during the recent Christmas season. The Christmas card tree presented to us at the Union hung with all of the holiday wishes, the cards sent to us by so many of you, the lovely carols sung to us at the house, all of these made our first Christmas in Hays one we shall always cherish in fond memory.

To all of you from the three of us, thank you.

NOTE: The classes which meet for 75 minutes on Tuesday and Thursday will meet for their final examination at the time of the full 50-minute period used by the class. That is, a class meeting at 7:30 to 8:45 will meet at the time for the 7:30 o'clock exam period on Tuesday, and a class meeting at 9:05 to 10:20 will meet for the exam at the time for the 9:30 exam period for Tuesday classes.

A final examination period has been established for the sake of uniformity in completing the work of respective courses.

All classes shall meet for at least one hour at the time indicated on the examination schedule for the final summing up of work of the course. Whether this "final summing up" is a written examination or a discussion or other form of summarization is for the instructor to decide. But, whatever the form, it should be a most profitable period to the student and instructor for a final appraisal of the course. Under no circumstance should this scheduled period be omitted, changed, or made of no importance.

No student is permitted to take an examination before the scheduled time for the examination.

A student who is unable to take the final examination at the scheduled time is required to pay a fee of $3.00 for each examination to be taken. The $3.00 fee shall be paid to the Business Office and the receipt showing payment must be presented, before taking the examination, to the person administering the examination.

Any student having more than three (3) examinations scheduled on the same day may make arrangements with the Dean of Faculty to have an adjustment made in his examination schedule.

'Everybody Has Their Problems'

BY SANDRA JOHNSON
Of the Leader Staff

St. Geraud, one of today's modern poets, opened his reading with several poems by some of his contemporaries.

These included "Corpse and Beans or What is Poetry?" comparing poetry to a crude noise, and "Everybody Has Their Problems," expressing his views of a blank, bare, perverse life.

Many of St. Geraud's poems were of social criticism such as the "Survival of Fittest Groceries," expressing the violence seen on T.V.

"My Favorite Angel," spoke of a virgin girl of 21 who restored one's sight only to be struck blind again by her overwhelming beauty and purity.

Drops Pen Name

Saint Geraud stated that he had dropped his pen name, the name of an evil character from a pornographic classic, for his real name, Bill Knot.

After reciting several of his "funny" poems, liberally dosed with four-letter words, he went on to some of his more serious poems, some very moving, such as "After the Burial," in which he purified his soul after the death of his loved one by thrusting his arms elbow deep into the earth that have been removed from her grave.

Knot enjoyed adding ironic twists to many of the anecdotes he gave, teasing the audience.

Use of Satire

In his poem on the study of the J.F.K.'s assassination investigation, he satirized the antiseptic calculations by showing two parents spanking a child, while a man passed by at exactly 3 1/2 m.p.h.; everything was measured to the nth degree, yet this didn't help the child a bit.

Though Bill Knot previously wrote poems against the Vietnam war, he stopped in 1967, feeling he was just congratulating himself on his discovery. Now he writes poems about people killing—what in himself would cause him to kill and why.

Knot explained he had started his own school of poetry, or group of poets, when none of the other poets would let him into their groups.

As he continued with his poems of embittered love, frustrations, killing people, and the garbage and violence in the world, he expressed his own bitterness about being a poor poet, confined to a cheap rooming house with a great deal of noise, which is very bothersome to a poet.

Began In High School

Later while answering questions, Knot explained that he had been writing poetry ever since he had been in high school, about 1957.

Knot explained he doesn't attempt to rhyme his poetry because it's "too much of a drag," and unnecessary, especially if a poet has difficulty with it.

He remarked that many of his funny poems were the result of trying to write truths about himself.

Knot, impressed by the large turnout, commented that at Yale he had less students, which obviously made us "smarter." Several in the audience nervously slipped their extra credit Literature slips out of sight.

Semesters shortened

Fort Hays State will join the other state-supported institutions of higher learning in Kansas in a new program of shortened semesters effective during the 1970-71 academic year.

Semesters are reduced from 18 to 16 weeks with students enrolling and attending classes earlier but completing the first semester's work before the traditional Christmas vacation.

Fall semester plans call for enrollment Aug. 26-28 and the beginning of classes Aug. 31. Final examinations begin Dec. 14 and the close of the semester is Dec. 21.

FHS faculty returns to campus Jan. 4 for a two-week intercession of special programs and activities.

Spring semester begins with enrollment Jan. 18-20 and the first day of classes is Jan. 21. Final examinations begin May 10, commencement is May 14 and May 17 is the last day of the semester.

A five-day Thanksgiving vacation is in store first semester and a nine-day vacation occurs during spring semester.

Summer session, 1970, shows enrollment June 8-9 with classes beginning June 10, final exams July 31 and Aug. 1 and the last day of summer work Aug. 3.

'Imaginary Invalid' opera premieres in February

"The Imaginary Invalid," a three-act opera based on Moliere's comedy, will be presented by the Department of Music at 8 p.m. Feb. 12-14 and at a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, Feb. 14 in Felten-Start Theater.

Patrick Goesser, assistant professor of music, and Dr. Lewis Miller, associate professor of music, have written the original text of the opera. The music is composed by Dr. Miller.

Opening night of "The Imaginary Invalid" will be the world premiere of the opera and will host guests from all over the state including Gov. Robert Docking.

Main Characters

The plot revolves around Argan, played by Terry Mai, Russell senior, and Dennis Urban, Bison graduate student, who are competing to play the part opening night. Argan is a hypochondriac who plots to match his daughter, Angelique, played by Vicky Meyer, Big Bow senior, with Thomas Diafirus who is played by Larry Gerber, Fowler senior. Argan's motive in this scheme is that he wants free medical care from Thomas' father who is a doctor portrayed by James Stambaugh, Macksville senior. Will Robinson, Hays freshman, will portray Thomas' father, at the matinee performance.

Angelique complicates the plot by falling in love with Cleante, who is played by Michael Springfield, Bushton senior, at the evening performances and Stephen Miller, Howard junior, at the matinee showing. She seeks the aid of Toinette, Argan's servant, Gloria Mitchell, Orleans, Nebr. senior, to foil her father's scheme.

Greedy Wife

In the meantime, Argan's wife Beline, played by Marilyn Miller, Russell junior, and Mary Lee Wilgers, Hays junior, tries to help Argan in his greedy plot by disinheritng Angelique and making herself the sole beneficiary.

Argan becomes aware of the relationship between his daughter and Cleante and hastens the hated marriage between Thomas and Angelique. Toinette and Angelique gain the support of Argan's brother Beralde, Philip Shuman, Hutchinson senior. Eventually, Toinette persuades Argan to pretend that he is dead to see who is true to him. His wife Beline greedily rejoices at his death while Angelique is in grief.

Argan allows Angelique to wed Cleante providing he becomes a doctor. Argan himself becomes a doctor and Toinette explains that the "physicians" are a group of strolling players known to Beralde. The production ends as the ritual is completed.

Cagers open 5-game home stand

Southern Colorado State College of Pueblo invades Sheridan Coliseum Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. to face the Fort Hays State basketball squad in the Tigers' third RMAC contest.

"Southern Colorado is an important game for us," Coach Chuck Brehm said. "We need to beat them at home in order to stay in the conference race," he said.

Saturday's game is the first of five straight home games for the Tigers. After the game with the SCSC Indians FHS will host Hastings College, Jan. 17; Pittsburg State, Jan. 24; University of Nebraska at Omaha, Jan. 31, and close the five home game stand against Kearney (Neb.) State, Feb. 2.

The FHS cagers downed Pittsburg State 89-80 at Pittsburg Dec. 13, for their first conference win of the season but were defeated by the Antelopes of Kearney State 116-90 in the season opener at Kearney.

Kearney is boasting an undefeated season and is averaging nearly 100 points per outing.

Southern Colorado returns five lettermen from last season's squad that twice downed the Tigers, 77-76 and 85-80. Only one starter, guard Jim Reilly, returns from the squad which finished with a 14-10 record last year. Earlier in the season the Indians of SCSC defeated Weber State, ranked 13th in the nation by Sports Illustrated.

Win Second

The Tigers of FHS picked up their second RMAC victory Monday night in Emporia when they downed the Hornets of Emporia State 73-63 in Civic Auditorium.

Charities nudge Ravens

A pair of free throws by captain Leneal Locke after the buzzer pushed Coach Chuck Brehm's forces to a win over St. Benedict's College for the second time this season Dec. 21 at Atchison.

The Ravens were hoping to gain revenge in the rematch for an earlier 65-62 loss to the Tigers in Hays.

Tigers Lead

FHS, looking for their second win over the Ravens this season, wasted no time getting back in the game and went ahead 19-18 on a shot by Darryl Apel with 9:10 left in the half.

The score was tied three times before intermission and with seven seconds left in the half, 6-7 reserve center Mike Gaskell got the ball and put in his first basket of the night to give the Tigers a 36-34 halftime lead.

Don Dalleo and Tim Moore each tossed in a charity during the final two minutes and their feat was matched by the Tigers' Apel.

Following Apel's shots, St. Benedict's Joe Brickner was guilty of traveling with the ball and the Tigers took over with 31 seconds left on the clock.

Free Throws Win Game

After a Tiger time out Locke had possession of the ball and was fouled as the final buzzer sounded with the score still deadlocked 64-64.

The 6-0 guard, who is hitting free throws at a 93.3 per cent clip, made both ends of a one and one charity to give the visiting FHS squad a two-point victory.

Locke led all scorers with 20 points on eight of 16 field goals and four of four free throws. Stockstill, Howgill and Apel also managed to score in double figures with 14, 13 and 10 points respectively.

Following a shaky first half in which the Tigers managed a 36-33 lead, the Tiger crew returned to the floor and once again had a hard time pulling away from the Hornets who were looking for their first conference win.

Late in the second stanza the Tigers led by 13 points but the home squad cut the lead to 10, 73-63, when the buzzer sounded, giving Coach Brehm's squad their seventh win of the season against three losses.

Junior forward Daryl Stockstill led the Tiger charge with 22 points and 16 rebounds to capture game honors in both departments. Captain Leneal Locke picked up 15 points while center Bob Bartkoski tallied 14 points and garnered eight caroms.

For the opposing Hornets sophomore Dale Northrup scored 21 points while teammates Randy Waters and Gene Farmer added 14 and 13 points to the team's total.

Tigers Lead Conference

So far this season the members of the Plains Division of the RMAC have not had much success in the basketball campaign.

The Tigers of FHS have the best record with a 7-3 mark followed by the University of Nebraska at Omaha with a 5-4 season record.

Pittsburg State and Southern Colorado stand .500 for the season with 5-5 and 4-4 marks.

Emporia State has picked up two victories this season, Ottawa University and Bethel College, while suffering eight defeats. Colorado State College has won only a single game against nine losses.

Tigers capture consolation title

In the Christmas Holiday Tournament at Cedar City, Utah, the Tigers played .500 ball and finished the tournament in the third spot.

Against Southern Utah, the host squad, FHS bowed 90-85 after leading 43-39 at halftime.

During the second stanza the Tigers were not able to keep pace with the Southern Utah squad as the Thunderbirds poured in 51 points while the visiting FHS squad could muster only 37 points.

Howgill Injured

Late in the game the Tigers lost the services of 6-8 Martyn Howgill, who suffered a fractured right elbow. Howgill had collected 12 points and five rebounds before falling to the floor after going up for a rebound. The England native is expected to rejoin the squad in two or three weeks.

Juniors Daryl Stockstill and Darryl Apel led Coach Chuck Brehm's forces with 21 points each. Bob Bartkoski led both squads in rebounding with 11 grabs.

In the tournament consolation game against Colorado School of Mines the Tigers broke the scoring ice first with a shot by Leneal Locke. CSM quickly countered with a bucket and then FHS jumped to a 7-4 lead only to go behind 9-7.

Score 100

The Bengals jumped to a 50-40 advantage in the second half and continued to pour in the points as they hit the century mark on two free throws by sophomore guard Duane Rauhut.

Locke paced the FHS squad by hitting 25 points after being held to seven points, all on free throws, the night before against Southern Utah.

Stockstill again scored over 20 points by throwing in 24 counters and grabbed six caroms. Apel also hit in double figures with 17 points while Al Campbell, Howgill's replacement, added 16 points and 10 rebounds.

After the championship game between Southern Utah and Grand Canyon College, Stockstill received a trophy and was named to the all-tournament team. The Geneseo native averaged 22.5 points in the tournament.

JUNIOR Daryl Stockstill (40) of Geneseo was named to the All-Tournament squad in the Cedar City, Utah, tournament Dec. 29-30. The 6-4 cager scored 45 points in two games to gain the honor.

Cold weather chills thinclads

After a 17-day break, coach Alex Francis' track squad is working back into shape for its first indoor meet of the season.

Distance runner Alvin Penka, Odin sophomore, and hurdling standout Marvin Ayers, Long Island junior, have yet to recover from colds and influenza that plagued most of the track team over Christmas vacation.

Francis hopes that his team has recovered from the worst of the diseases so that they may get back into shape.

"Our early future in indoor track depends on the weather," Francis explained. "With no indoor track facilities here, it's hard to get people into shape," he added.

The thinclads have been working out in 15-degree weather in preparing for the NAIA Indoor Championships in Kansas City, Jan. 23-24.

According to Francis, the team is weak in the mile relay and the field events. A lack of good quarter-milers accounts for the gap in the mile relay. Senior shotputter Bob Ford from Rush Center is resting after a shoulder injury.

Although the field events appear weak at the moment, Francis' new assistant track coach and "an authority in the field," Larry Thirstrup, should improve the potential of the field events later in the season.

Evans receives District 10 honors

Tommy Evans, Plattsburg, Mo., junior, received another honor for his performance last fall as a Tiger halfback as he was named to the NAIA All-District 10 backfield.

The 5-8, 180-pound Evans, racked up 1,022 yards rushing in the 1969 season even though the Tigers finished the year with a 0-9 mark.

Grapplers will meet CSM Mules on road tonight

Fort Hays State's wrestlers are slated to resume dual action after three tough meets when they travel to Warrensburg, Mo., today to tangle with Central Missouri State.

CMS will provide the Tigers with the first competition of the new year. A year ago FHS won the dual 17 to 12.

Double Dual Saturday

Saturday the Tigers will participate in a double dual with the University of Missouri of Rolla and Southwest Missouri at Springfield.

The Tigers will forfeit the 134-pound class in both meets because Paul Bishop was injured during the last meet and Gary Ulmer will drop down to the 126-pound event.

Two Out for Season

Major blows to the team came this week when it was learned that Steve Miller, 150-pound standout, and Mike Metzler, are out for the season. Miller suffered a dislocated spinal disc that may end his career as a wrestler at FHS. Metzler's injury will not allow him to wrestle again this season.

According to wrestling coach Dave Winter, his squad is weak in the lower weights, "but one of these days we'll put something together, when our injuries heal."

Seventh In Colorado

Last time the Tigers saw action, they finished seventh overall in the Colorado State College Invitational Dec. 19 and 20.

Leading the squad with a third place finish was 142-pound Jeff Cox. A fourth place was garnered by Steve Merritt, who wrestles in the 177-pound class. Fifth and sixth places went to Rick Doran, heavyweight, and Grady Elder, 190-pound class representative.

Seventh place finishers were Mike Holliman, 118-pounder and Leon Tresner, 158-pounder. Bishop, 126-pounder, Ulmer, 134-pounder, Miller, 150-pounder and Bryce Davidson, 167-pounder finished 8th.

Gymnasts ready for home finale

Sporting a 4-0 season mark, the Fort Hays State gymnasts are now taking advantage of a month lay-off and are preparing for the final home meet against Northwestern Oklahoma and Southwestern Missouri State Jan. 17.

The FHS squad, coached by Ed McNeil, opened the season with a 135.20-119.75 win over Central Missouri State and then swept a double dual match from Northwestern Oklahoma and South Dakota University. In the double dual the Tigers picked up 131.10 points compared to NWO's 43.50 and SDU's 53.70 points.

The Tigers closed the 1969 portion of the season Dec. 17 as they squeaked by Wichita State University 133.95-132.10. In the meet, senior Bill Holmes won the free exercise with an 8.00 mark and the long horse competition with a 9.15 showing. Gary Hesser was the only other Tiger winner as he recorded an 8.30 mark on the still rings.

Capturing second places for FHS were Charles Brownell, 8.20; Johnny Sanders on the long horse, 8.20; Hesser on the parallel bars, 8.15, and Bob Cunningham on the horizontal bar, 7.65.

Holmes continues to be the scoring leader for the Tigers as he has tallied 158.75 points. Freshman Sanders and Hesser trail Holmes in scoring with 75.75 and 62.00 points respectively. Co-captain Jim Green had added 60.50 points to the Tiger scoring cause.
