'No reliable basis . . .'

Gustad slams A.C.T. rankings

BY MARTYN HOWGILL
Editorial Page Assistant

Dr. John Gustad said that there was no basis in a recent American College Testing Program report for the low rating of FHS among Kansas' colleges and universities. The research report received publicity throughout Kansas last month when it was interpreted to grade schools in the state according to academic excellence.

Second From Bottom
According to these ratings, FHS ranks second from bottom, above Friends of Wichita, with Kansas University at the top. Dr. Gustad denounced the interpretation of this report as erroneous and said, "There exists now no reliable basis for making the kind of 'quality' ratings contained in these releases."

Following the publication of the story in the Kansas City Star the author of the research report, Dr. Donald Hoyt said, "There is nothing in the report providing any basis for comparing quality of universities. It is regrettable that statements were made about the quality of colleges when my data had no significance for quality."

"Designed To Help"

The report was designed to help high school students determine their chances for academic success at specific colleges and "to take into account differences among colleges in the academic potentials of their students," said Dr. Hoyt in the introduction to the report.

"My research," said Dr. Hoyt, "established that the average academic ability of freshmen entering various four-year colleges could be estimated with fair reliability from knowledge of institutional characteristics."

"The University of Kansas may well have been eighth in the country as far as the ACT composite goes but this is certainly no measure of excellence."

Not How Bright

"Excellence or quality is a measure of what you do with the students you attract, not merely how bright the students you attract are."

"A college could attract bright students and rate high on the ACT composite, but, because they did nothing with the talent they attracted, be a poor quality school," said Dr. Hoyt.

Spring Enrollment Figures

Spring enrollment once again set a new record.

Enrollment totals dropped slightly from this fall, but increased over last spring's figures. This semester's 5,250 students made an increase of 90 over the 5,160 enrolled last spring.

Increases were shown from sophomore through graduate levels, with enrollment drops registered at the freshman and educational specialist levels.

A breakdown of the enrollment figures follows:

	Spring '70	Fall '69	Spring '69
Freshmen	1,365	1,504	1,427
Sophomore	1,050	1,177	1,034
Junior	1,005	1,143	982
Senior	996	1,078	974
Graduate	601	546	592

Dribblers hit the highway for Omaha

BY SUSAN TROUT

Bounce . . . bounce . . .

It began at 8 a.m. this morning.

Bounce . . . bounce . . .

The McGrath Hall men set out to "dribble a ball to Omaha."

Bounce . . . bounce . . .
bounce . . .

If they are successful, the men should reach the University of Nebraska campus in time for the Omaha-Fort Hays State basketball game Monday night.

83-Hour Trek

McGrath dribbling team planned the 83-hour trek to demonstrate support for the Tigers in their RMAC championship drive. Gary Sampson, Oak Hill junior and leader of the expedition, explained, "Men of McGrath Hall make up the unit, but the whole school is backing us."

Each member of the 25-man team will dribble for approximately one mile before he is relieved. The trip will be 342 miles one-way, so the team must progress at least four miles per hour in order to reach Omaha on time, according to Sampson.

The route follows Highway 183 to Phillipsburg, turns east on Highway 36 to Lebanon, takes Highway 283 to Hastings, Neb. and picks up U. S. Highway 6 into Omaha.

$615 Raised

Sampson said $615 was raised to help cover the cost of meals, admission to the game and travel expenses. "We received a very favorable reaction from the townspeople," Sampson said, "and great financial and moral support from Hays businesses."

The planning for the venture began Dec. 16. McGrath Hall prepared two sack lunches for each person for the first day. Four basketballs were donated by Coach Chuck Brehm and Goodwin's Sporting Goods. "We hope that's all we'll need," Sampson said. "But we'll have a spare just in case."

Transportation Provided

Student Senate has arranged for student use of the school bus for the basketball game. Twenty seats will be available to students at a cost of $5 per seat.

Registration is from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. today in the Memorial Union for those who want to make the trip. At 2 p.m. there will be a drawing in the Gold Room, when 10 names will be chosen.

People whose names are drawn will be charged $10 for two tickets. Tickets must be picked up before 3:30 p.m. or the names will be redrawn. The bus will leave Hays at 10 a.m. Monday and will return the same night.

Alpha Phi Omega has also chartered a Greyhound bus to take interested students to the game. Each seat for the bus will cost $14.

Funds

McGrath Hall solicited funds for the trip from several campus organizations, Hays businessmen and individuals.

Summer commencements axed

Fort Hays State will no longer have two commencements a year, according to a Faculty Senate decision at its regular meeting last week.

"There will be only one commencement on May 29 this year," Dr. John Garwood, dean of faculty, announced. "From now on there will be no summer commencement."

Garwood explained that students who would lack a few hours needed for spring graduation could take part in commencement ceremonies but would receive a blank diploma and must make up the necessary hours during the following summer school session.

At last — an on-campus bookstore

Trading post nears completion

Students will soon be able to saunter into an on-campus bookstore — The Trading Post.

Located in the new addition to the Memorial Union, the bookstore is scheduled to open in mid-April. According to Memorial Union director Lynn Rogers, special care has been taken to design the store so it will fulfill the needs of the customers—full and part-time students, faculty members and alumni.

Actually, it's one bookstore in two locations. Each store will serve a separate function. The lower level store will handle textbooks, buy-backs and art supplies. And, the main level store will contain school supplies, paperback books, jewelry, novelties and Greek supplies. Rogers said, "We'll try to have everything that's required by the college as well as an unlimited amount of items the students might want."

Must Make Profit

Rogers stressed the fact that the Trading Post must make a profit. "We can't afford to give away books," the director said. "We must make a profit because the union is self-supporting. We get no tax money."

A number of services in the union are strictly non-profit. So, any bookstore profit will be added to the Union fund to help finance these services. According to Rogers, the Memorial Union fund helps pay for maintenance, programming, administration and accounting costs.

"We'd like to show a minimum goal of breaking even," he said. "Then we could offer programs the students want."

Plans now are to sell the books at the publisher's price. And, Rogers feels the "policy for buy-backs will be very good."

Policies Made Known

He feels that the bookstore's policies should be made known. "We plan to print our buy-back policies. Then, we'll have copies on hand so the students can take them and read over them."

Richard Parker, a specialist in the book-buying business, will manage the Memorial Union stores. He has been operating a four-store system in San Diego, Calif., and will begin in Hays the second semester.

The new manager, whom Rogers described as "enthusiastic and energetic," will help establish the book policies which are to be announced.

The Trading Post will have a large inventory and about eight people on hand to assist at all times. The lower level store will occupy 3,000 square feet of space and the main level store, 2,000 square feet. Also, five check-out stands will operate between the two areas.

Friendly Atmosphere

"We are determined to create a friendly atmosphere," the union director commented. "The help will be concerned that you get what you want and do not feel you have been treated poorly. If you don't walk into the store and see courteous people, all I have to do is hear about it one time."

Rogers said a board will discuss and review the policies of the bookstore. The board members — consisting of five faculty, six students, and one Student Senate representative — will make suggestions for the director's consideration. But, the director will make the final decision about all suggestions.

Six persons new to FHS this spring

Six new personnel and faculty members have joined the staff for the spring semester.

Three new faculty members who will be teaching this semester are Michael Bogan, instructor of zoology, who received his bachelor's degree from Baker University and his master's degree from FHS and has done doctoral work at the University of New Mexico.

Sandra Rupp, instructor of Economics and Business, received her bachelor's degree from FHS and is working on her master's degree.

Dr. Gerald Sharp, assistant professor of biological science, received his bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Idaho and received his doctor's degree from Washington State University.

Florence Rupp has joined the staff as a college nurse. Mrs. Rupp has received her nursing degrees at Sacred Heart College and St. Joseph School of Nursing.

Richard Parker is the new Memorial Union bookstore manager. Parker received his bachelor's degree from Georgia State College.

Daniel Durand is Director of the Physical Plant. Durand will be in charge of the building maintenance, grounds and custodial departments, garage, power plant and security patrol.

Wallace Alver, assistant professor of psychology, and R. Paul Day, Jr., instructor of English on leave of absence, have turned in resignations that will be effective at the end of the spring semester.

Eight coeds seeking title

Math scholarship available to students

In its fourth year, the E. E. and Louie Colyer Scholarship in Mathematics will soon be awarded to a Fort Hays State student. The student who receives this scholarship receives tuition for both semesters next year.

To be eligible for this award, the student must be a citizen of the United States, of good moral character, exhibit above average leadership and have obtained a "B" or better in Analytic Geometry and Calculus 51.

Apply Now

According to Dr. Elton Beougher, assistant professor of mathematics and acting chairman of the department, interested students should apply directly to the scholarship committee by March 1.

This committee is made up of the head of the math department, the business manager and registrar as set by terms of the Colyer will. The committee makes the decision about which student will receive the scholarship which is administered through the Student Aids office.

Interested students should pick up forms in the Student Aids office or in A116. The winner will be announced March 15.

Instructor

Colyer and his wife were both instructors at FHS. He was a member of the mathematics department from 1915 to 1943.

When he died at the age of 97 in August, 1965, Colyer provided in his will that $5,000 be given to Fort Hays State and established as a scholarship memorial.

In addition to the fund, Colyer left more than 1,100 books, maps, pictures and other papers to Forsyth Library.

Debaters grab 1st place trophy

Fort Hays State debaters proved their prowess over the weekend by totaling 13 wins to only three losses and bringing home a first-place trophy from the tournament at Tahlequah, Okla.

Stealing the show from last week's sweepstakes Fort Hays State duo, the team of Mark Harbison and Larry Dahl swept the slate clean with nine wins to take top honors in the junior division.

Carolyn Sallee and Brad Brann, who went undefeated last week at Bethel College, won four and lost two in the preliminary rounds, then lost out in the quarterfinals.

Coch Dan Rothwell's debaters are freshmen and sophomores, and are all new to collegiate competition this year. In the last four tournaments they have brought home trophies and awards from the University of Southern California, the University of Denver, Bethel and this week's win at Tahlequah.

Maxi - - a fashion dare

Pam Schneider, Goodland freshman, brightened her winter wardrobe with a red vinyl maxi coat, buckled in gold, and buttoned in military style at the cuffs and shoulders.

BY TERRI STAAB
Society Editor

Maxicoats have withstood their first test—winter 1969-70 marks the maxicoat as one of the most striking, most extreme and even most practical fashion highlights.

Combating the cold winds and low temperature, the maxicoat strode across the fashion scene this winter, dispelling industry doubts that it would "catch on." And apparently for the coming spring season its popularity does not intend to decline.

Paris designer Coco Chanel called the miniskirt "the most absurd weapon woman has ever employed to seduce men." So for fall 1967, European and American designers, such as Daniel Hechter and Jacques Delahaye of France, Ossie Clarke and Roland Klein of London and America's Coty Domini of Maty Talmach, Chester Weinberg and Luba of Elite again lowered the hemline of their dresses, introducing the midi.

Impact

The midi impact was weak. And it wasn't until this last year that the maxi really became more than a model's dare.

Life magazine cited Buster Keaton as the "farsighted father of the maxicoat," referring to his "wretched" wardrobe in a movie filmed over five years ago. Nevertheless, the maxicoat has progressed far beyond "Buster Keaton's" pace, to be viewed by some as one of the most exciting fashion happenings in recent years.

"The maxi has the feeling of elegance," said Walter Blatner, Pittsburgh specialty shop owner. "That's what's putting it across. It's the biggest thing that has hit the industry for a long time."

Take a windy, cloudy, almost dreary winter day, and the bold, high fashion maxi coat can maybe even help bring on a playful mood. Loretta Miller, Collyer junior, made her gray wool maxi coat and set it off with brass buttons and large pockets and collar.

Awkward or elegant?

When the maxicoat hit the market last fall, initial sales surprised dealers as they discovered that while the coat tended to remain the choice of the young, it definitely was "the" coat for winter. Sales proved the maxi raincoat the favorite, promising to carry the maxi style through all seasons, not only winter.

Not Threatening

So far the maxicoat is not threatening the mini skirt. On the contrary, they seem to accent each other, as people laughingly note the contrast of mini-skirted women and girls wrapped to the ankle in the maxicoat.

Fort Hays State coeds complain of the difficulty in walking when wind whips the skirt of the coat around legs, and when stairs and steps offer a new and different challenge, almost unknown to the miniskirt generation.

Hindering the graceful, swift walk, the maxiskirt compensates for its awkward limitations with a kind of distinctive, impressive richness of length, of yards of material, and of bold design.

Slow To Join

Hays and Fort Hays State was slow to join the maxi movement. The number of maxicoats on campus can be counted on one hand, but their scarcity merely draws attention to the new fashion style.

Colors have generally remained neutral for the maxicoat here. However, floor length, colorful scarfs; huge buttons; bright buckles on large belts; high, stand-up collars or wide, spreading collars emphasize the maxicoat, guaranteeing it will not be ignored.

Awkward or elegant? Bold or ridiculous? Fad or part of the fashion picture for quite awhile?

Whatever the case, one must admit that as the coed in her flowing maxicoat walks across campus, she demands at least a second look, maybe even an envying and admiring sigh that only the daring in fashion and that type of richness can demand.

Mindy McAfee, Coal Valley, Ill., sophomore, chose a maxi styled in dark navy blue, with long front and side seams, giving an added look of length to the coat seemingly made for the crisp out-of-doors.

Shiny black vinyl distinguished Deb Andrist's maxi from other coats this winter. Buttoned cuffs and a wide belt at the waist trims the coat. Deb is a sophomore from St. Francis.

Emporia State here Saturday

RMAC race hinges on next two games

BY GARY FREED
Assistant Sports Editor

Conference action for the Fort Hays State basketball squad continues Saturday night when Emporia State invades Sheridan Coliseum in the final home game of the season.

Emporia State stands 0-8 in RMAC action and 2-18 overall while the Tigers hold down second place in the conference on a 5-3 mark and 12-8 for the season.

Stay In Contention
Saturday night FHS kept on the heels of league-leading University of Nebraska at Omaha by downing Colorado State College 92-73 in Sheridan Coliseum before a capacity crowd.

Coach Chuck Brehm's charges opened the game scoring on an outside shot by 6-6 center Bob Bartkoski but the Bears of CSC countered on a tip shot by 6-3 forward Don Stone.

Neither squad gained much of a margin in the first half and the score was tied five times during the period.

CSC Leads

FHS held the lead until CSC's junior guard Joe Donahue connected on a driving layup with 7:54 left in the stanza, making the score 27-26. The Bears hit on five more consecutive markers for a 32-26 advantage.

Daryl Stockstill's shot from under the bucket tied the score 34-34 with 3:12 left on the clock and was his first field goal of the night, but the 6-4 junior managed to sink 11 points before intermission.

CSC rallied for six points early in the second stanza to lead 43-41 but senior captain Leneal Locke put the Tigers back in the driver's seat 46-45 with 16:54 remaining in the contest.

A three-point play by Donahue gave the Bears the lead by a pair, but Stockstill hit two charity tosses to deadlock the contest 48-48. Locke then hit from the outside to put the home squad two points up and the Tigers led through the remainder of the game.

Coach Brehm sent his forces into a delay game leading 79-67 and 5:43 left in the contest forcing the desperate Bears of CSC to foul or give up the easy shot.

Although CSC shut Stockstill out from the field for 17 minutes in the first half, the junior forward threw in 26 counters and grabbed 14 rebounds to take game honors in both departments.

Locke connected on 24 points followed by Martyn Howgill, 13 points and 11 caroms, and Darryl Apel, 12 markers.

In other conference action Saturday night Pittsburg State slipped by Emporia State 71-60 and Omaha University won an 85-83 squeaker from Southern Colorado State at Omaha.

RMAC action this week finds Pittsburg State, 5-3, at Southern Colorado, 4-4 tonight and Pittsburg at Colorado State, 4-3, Saturday night. Emporia State travels to CSC Monday and CSC meets Southern Colorado at Pueblo on Thursday.

SHARPSHOOTING GUARD Darryl Apel is currently splitting the nets for an 11-point average per game after the Tigers' 92-73 decision over Colorado State College.

Rangers gain revenge for thumping at Coliseum

Northwestern Oklahoma gained revenge for its 101-88 trouncing Dec. 2, downing the Fort Hays State cagers 69-72 Tuesday night in Alva, Okla.

The Oklahoma crew jumped to an early 12-2 margin and led through the remainder of the first period for a 47-31 advantage at intermission.

Maintain Lead

Coach Chuck Brehm's squad also had trouble getting the shots to fall during the second half and the Rangers of NWO maintained their lead in the second stanza.

Since the last meeting between the two clubs Northwestern added forward Llewellyn Scott and guard Bob Colon to the roster and the two cagers contributed 12 and 13 points for the Rangers.

Tiger Scorers

Daryl Stockstill paced Tiger scorers and rebounders on 20 points and 10 caroms followed by Leneal Locke who tallied 19 counters.

The Tigers shot a cold 35 per cent on 27 of 77 shots from the field while their hosts hit 40 per cent on 36 of 90 attempts.

Soccer club looks for coach

Are you looking for coaching experience as a background for a coaching career? Here's your chance.

The Fort Hays State soccer squad, composed of 20 members, coming from various countries in the world, is looking for a coach.

The soccer players are trying to work out a schedule with Kansas colleges and universities. Experience with the game of soccer is mandatory. Any interested coach should contact Luis Sarmiento at 628-8348 or call the men's physical education office, extension 263.

LOOKING FOR A 60 PER CENT free throw shooter, coach? Sherrill Coffin, Dodge City junior, won the girls' free throw title at halftime of the Colorado State-Fort Hays State basketball game, canning 15 of 25 shots from the charity stripe.

Head for Alva, Okla. today

Gymnasts split on road

Coach Ed McNeil's gymnastics squad faces Northwestern Oklahoma State for the third time this season today at Alva, Okla.

FHS downed NWO 131.10-43.50 and 140.85-84.90 earlier this year. Both meets were in Sheridan Coliseum.

Split Double Dual

Last weekend the Tiger gymnasts split a double dual match, losing to the University of Kansas of the Big Eight Conference 152.40-123.10, and beating Central Missouri State 123.10-95.70.

Southwest Missouri State, originally scheduled to participate, cancelled from the meet so KU was invited.

Aponte Top Gymnast
Freshman Hector Aponte was the top point getter for the Tigers, now 6-1 in dual competition, picking up 61.40 points in the two meets followed by Johnny Sanders, 32.10 points.

KU swept all six top spots against FHS and CMS but the Tigers took the top positions in all six categories against the Missouri squad.

Tiger Winners

Aponte recorded an 8.05 in the free exercise event while Gary Hesser picked up wins on the still rings on a 7.45 and parallel bars with an 8.05 showing.

Charles Brownell won the side horse scoring a 6.50 and Sanders turned in an 8.70 performance on the long horse for first-place. In the high bar event Bob Cunningham paced the Tigers on a 6.40 mark.

"I was real pleased with our performance," coach McNeil said. "I thought we did real well for our first meet away from home."

'It was close' - - - Francis

Lately Fort Hays State's veteran track coach Alex Francis has been pulling strings, bargaining and negotiating in an attempt to replace the Kansas State University Indoor formerly scheduled for next week with another indoor meet.

Last Saturday, Francis' thin-clads evened their dual mark for the indoor season with a 72-70 win over Kearney (Neb.) State College. "It was close right down to the wire like I thought it would be," Francis said.

Double winners for the Tigers were Larbi Oukada in the mile and two-mile runs; Mike Estes, 49.3 in the 440-yard dash (new record); Marvin Ayers, 9.3 in the 75-yard high hurdles (ties record) and 10.6 in the 100-yard low hurdles (new record).

Other first place winners for FHS included Bob Ford with a record 54-3 toss in the shot put and the mile relay quartet of Bob Young, Dave Schneider, Rich Green and Estes with a 3:26.4 clocking.

Malaysian basketball star recalls the good ole days

Inspired by the antics of the Harlem Globetrotters touring Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, 14-year-old Lim Fong Sam immediately decided that he wanted to be a great basketball player.

Sam reached his goal in five short years when he earned a starting slot on the 1964 Malaysian Olympic basketball squad as a 5-10 guard.

Now 24 years old, the former Olympian is doing his graduate work in business administration at Fort Hays State, and seldom finds the time to play basketball.

When Sam was in his prime as a senior in high school at Tai Wan, he was competing with his fellow Malaysians for a spot on the Olympic basketball squad.

Tokyo

Sam was not only the shortest man on their Olympic basketball squad, he was also the youngest—playing with teammates up to 26 years old.

"Our team didn't do too well at Tokyo," Sam said. "We beat Indonesia and Thailand though" he added. Remember that Sam was playing on the same court that UCLA's Gail Goodrich and Providence standout Bill Bradley played on when the United States won the 1964 Olympic basketball title.

Prior to the Olympics, instead of playing basketball teams from each of the other 12 Malaysian states, Sam's team traveled extensively, playing games in Thailand,

Indonesia, Vietnam, Hong Kong and Japan.

Favorite Shot

Asked about his favorite shot, Sam commented, "I like to drive the lane for a layup, mostly because I can't shoot too well from outside." His favorite shot must have been dropping for him during one of the Asian international games, because Sam hit his all-time scoring high of 35 points.

Sam contributes a lot of his early basketball training to his American coach at Tai Wan high school, Matt Lanton. Lanton was at Kuala Lumpur on a coaching exchange program and helped Sam develop during his high school years.

On one occasion, Sam's college team played an American team and was beaten by 40 points. "but they had such big players—it was hopeless," Sam recalled.

Sam grinned as he concluded the highlights of his basketball career admitting, "it was fun then, but I'm really out of shape now."

Grapplers pick up wins

Fort Hays State's wrestlers picked up a big road win Tuesday night when they defeated Kearney (Neb.) State, 23-13.

Last night the Tigers closed out their dual meet season with Emporia State Teachers College in Sheridan Coliseum.

A week ago the grapplers snapped a home losing streak by defeating Central Missouri State, 24-11, in the final round of a double dual meet. In the first round action, FHS was nailed by Adams State College, last year's NAIA champions, 26-11.

Picking up wins for the Tigers against CMS were 134-pound Gary Ulmer with a 3-2 decision; 142-pound Bob Brown, 7-2 decision; 158-pound Leon Tresner, 5-1 decision; and 190-pound Ken Dieck, 6-1 decision.

Winners for FHS against Adams State were 126-pound Greg La-Coss, with a 7-4 decision; 142-pound Brown, 6-4 decision; and 150-pound Bob Brock, 3-1 decision.

You could buy one of those small cars.

But look what you don't get.

Nova's got a lot to talk about. Because you get so much more value with a Nova. Things you just can't find on other cars anywhere near the price. Maybe that's why Nova is such a big seller. It offers what more people want. Along with a resale value that'll make some of those other cars seem even smaller by comparison. Putting you first, keeps us first.

Fish float lifeless

It's everyone's problem

BY JOYCE RABAS
Of the Leader Staff

Fish float lifeless in Big Creek. Students momentarily stop breathing as they cross the Custer Hall bridge.

Our air, water and land are becoming nationwide issues. Believe it or not, pollution is coming to FHS. Future-minded students here are investigating these problems. They are starting now, before it's too late, to reverse the harm already done.

Conference

Five students from FHS faced state government leaders recently for the Governor's Youth Conference on Environmental Problems. The conference, held at Washburn University in Topeka, provided students with the opportunity to hear the remarks of specialists in water quality, pesticides, air and feedlot pollution.

Charles Wilhelm, speech pathologist at FHS, calls noise pollution in our environment, "more than a nuisance." According to Wilhelm, the annual hearing tests at FHS reveal that 20 per cent of male students here evidence mild noise-induced hearing loss. This is due to the impact noise of running tractors, hunting and listening to loud music for long periods of time.

Looking at the water problem, Verlyn Ebert, Kansas Forestry, Fish and Game Commission employee, noted that two years ago Kansas ranked fifth among the fifty states in fish kills due to pollution.

Soil Erosion

Soil erosion ranks as number one water pollutant in Ellis County, according to Ken Albright, county agricultural agent.

Predictions are that the environment and its improvement will be outstanding projects in the '70's. But, pollution is a personal matter.

We, as individuals, have to care enough for our environment to help preserve it. We can't expect the other guy to clean up the "cloud of smoke" we leave behind.
