Sculpture Dedicated

Keith Sebellus, Kansas Representative (R), was a featured speaker at the dedication of Pete Felten's limestone sculpture of a bull at the Fort Hays Experiment Station. The statue commemorates the 75th anniversary of the experiment station. In Sebellus' speech he said that the farmers are facing a 'very severe cash flow and price crisis.'

FHS cuts off advance payments in effort to treat veterans equally

In an effort to treat all veterans equally, Fort Hays State administrators have decided that no veterans will receive advance payments under the GI Bill this fall. Under Public Law 94-502, not all veterans are eligible for the payments. Those eligible are students who do not attend school this summer. FHS must also agree to receive and disburse the checks during fall enrollment. Carroll Beardslee, director of financial aids, explained that FHS has decided against this and cited "inequality" as the reason. However, FHS will maintain the same policy of deferring tuition payment until the veterans have received their first benefit check.

"If we are going to have a deferral program, we must be consistent and have one for everybody, and not have some vets getting checks and others not," said Beardslee. "We are going to handle all of them the same." Dan Jamerson, veteran's representative, explained that under the law veterans attending summer school will be required to re-apply for their benefits during enrollment for the fall semester. Because all Kansas colleges will be submitting this paperwork at the same time, Jamerson believes that a "bottleneck" will occur and that the first check will not arrive until Oct. 1, if all goes well. If there are any "foul ups" the checks may not arrive until Oct. 17 said Jamerson. Walter Keating, vice-president for administration and finance, explained that FHS allows veterans to make one-third of their tuition payment after receiving their first benefit check and the remainder at a later date. In the past the Veterans Administration (VA) has had problems with veterans receiving their checks and then not attending classes. To correct this, beginning in the summer session, 1977, veterans will no longer receive their checks at the beginning of the month, but must wait until the following month. The June check will not arrive until July 1, and the July check until Aug. 1.

Cerebral palsy victim favors recreational therapy

"Occupational therapy just turned me off," said 25-year-old Wayne Cook from Denver. "It (recreation) stimulates the child that is doing it. It is fun. It is rehabilitation." Cook expressed these views in speaking to physical education students and teachers at Cunningham 121 Wednesday. He represented Toss-Back and Pro Keds, of Dorrance, Kan., by demonstrating the company's toss-back which is used for physical therapy, a lifetime pursuit for Cook, a cerebral palsy victim. He said that he overcame wearing leg casts at night and leg braces in the daytime and practiced basketball about six hours each day so he could play with the "kids on the block." He said he scored 24 points to beat his "normal" friends in a high school basketball game. Cook said that as a college student in Colorado he was challenged to ski and did so aided by outriggers used by amputees. He also said he learned tennis in a month so he could play a benefit match before a Jimmy Connors match. Cook demonstrated his "own-way" serve which involves tossing and hitting the ball with the left hand. "I consider myself an accomplished athlete," Cook said of his rehabilitation, "but I've always had this recessive right hand." Cook demonstrated how he is improving the recessive hand by using the toss-back machine. "Within three months I'm going to have this hand as good as my left hand," Cook said. Cook said the toss-back helps hand-eye coordination, walking and "everything." He said he almost cried when he saw the fun a child in a wheel chair was having throwing a ball into the toss-back. "After five times he was exhausted," Cook said. "Want, work for non-material gain and determination are words that are important to me now," Cook said. He said that everywhere there are lower level retarded children who want to participate, but they need to learn to throw and catch first. "And there's no reason why they can't," Cook said. Cook demonstrated how these kids and normal kids can learn basic ball-handling fundamentals with the toss-back. He said that many of his Denver Broncos friends bought a toss-backs for their children to use. Cook said he thought schools should use this recreational approach to rehabilitate handicapped children and hoped the special students would not be left-out of the physical education classes. He said that schools would have to be equipped to handle special students by 1979, according to law.

feature original music by Brett Musser, Phillipsburg senior and on-stage musicians performing on instruments of the period. An extended stage-front will also highlight the play, with the stage projecting over the first two rows of the theater. Trauth explained that this is an attempt to recreate the original interaction between actor and audience typical of the Elizabethan era. All of the actors come from within the class. Two special requirements add challenge to the actors' capabilities; not only are 19 actors required to play 32 parts, but several of the women will perform as men. Cast members include Jim Reitz, Medicine Lodge sophomore, a Lord, servant to Petruchio; John Keating, Wheaton sophomore, Sly; Towana McReynolds, Hostess, servant; Neil Miller, Chapman graduate student, page; Petruchio; Sharon Meyer, Ellinwood freshman, player, messenger, haberdasher; Jane Bigelow, Hughson, Calif. graduate student, player; Curtis: Jana Salmans, Hanston senior, player, widow, servant to Petruchio; and Karen Gore, Larned junior, huntsman, pedant. Other cast members: Becky Beach, Tribune junior, servant, tailor, servant to Petruchio; Kathy Schramm, Hays graduate student, huntsman, servant; Vincentio; Sheila Philip, Hays junior, Baptista; Martin Massaglia, Hays senior, Lucentio; Mike Maslak, Kansas City senior, Gremio; Tim Counts, Hays freshman, Hortensio; Brett Musser, Tranio; Peg Kincaid, Ellinwood senior, Biondello; Nancy Rothe, Bison sophomore, Grumio; Brenda Meder, Victoria sophomore, Katherina; and Sherry Searls, Wichita junior, Bianca. Sharon Meyer will assist Trauth in directing. Sue Christensen, assistant professor of speech, is in charge of set design, while Kay Massaglia is overseeing costume construction. Performances will be May 13-14 at 8 p.m. and May 15 at 2 p.m. in Felten-Start Theater. All seats are $1, two tickets for $1.50 if bought together, with season ticket holders getting in free. Those desiring group rates can call the box office from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. starting May 9.

Center plans workday Spring workday for the Baptist Campus Center is May 7. Students are available to do yard work, spring house cleaning, car washing, taking down storm windows, painting, or any other odd jobs. Money donated will go to the Fund of Renewal, an attempt by two Baptist denominations to raise $7.5 million for minority education and self-help projects across the country. Students who wish to donate time, either Saturday or during the week, and persons wishing to have work done may call the Center at 625-5923. Fred Ansell, 628-1450, or Tim Counts, 625-7446. A party is planned at the Baptist Campus Center, 407 Elm Street, Friday evening, for those who will be working on Saturday.

Association sponsors bike-a-thon

A diabetes Bike-a-thon is being sponsored on May 7 in Hays by the northwest Kansas unit of the American Diabetes Association. The bike-a-thon will begin at 9 a.m. with the participants meeting in the Hays Buffalo Park south of the Fort Hays campus. The bikers will ride to Antonino and back, a total of 17.2 miles. Prizes to be awarded include a 1977 Honda Express to the person collecting the most money for his ride. Other prizes will be two ten-speed bikes, $25 savings accounts and free pizzas from the Pizza Hut. Proceeds from the bike-a-thon will go to support activities of the American Diabetes Association, Kansas Affiliate, and the northwest Kansas unit of the association which is sponsored by the Health Services Educational Activities at FHS.

The primary goal of the association is to educate its patients, the public and professionals about various aspects of diabetes and how to control it. Several FHS senior nursing students have assisted with the programs. Persons interested in obtaining entry forms or sponsoring a rider should call either 628-5370 or 625-5618 or stop by Albertson 315 or Littlejohn Realtors, 106 W 12th St in Hays.

Students charged with burglary

Two Fort Hays State students have been charged in the break-in and burglary of foodstuffs at McMinder's Hall early last Thursday morning. Edward R. Gillaspie, Council Grove junior, and Harland S. Herrman, LaCrosse sophomore, were arrested Friday afternoon and charged with one count each of theft and burglary. Both were released on their own recognizance. The sheriff's office traced the two men through a car that was seen by the campus security patrol that was loaded with food. The car had been borrowed and the owner was not involved, according to Chief Don Brown of campus security. Brown stated that the campus officers saw someone crawling through a window on the south side of McMinder's Hall at about 12:30 a.m. Thursday. The officers then tried to intercept the burglar from a doorway, but he had already escaped. Bob Sommerfield of ARA Food Services stated that over $100 worth of foodstuffs were taken in the burglary. Arraignment for the two has been set for Monday.

Wasinger chosen as ASK director

Bob Wasinger, Hays sophomore, was chosen as the Associated Students of Kansas (ASK) campus director. His term begins Sunday. "I'm confident that Deb Harrison, executive director of ASK, made a wise decision in choosing Bob for the position. Bob possesses the necessary qualities to make an excellent campus director," said Stan Teasley, former ASK campus director. "I feel that he will benefit ASK and the students of Fort Hays State." In summing up his year as ASK director, Teasley said it was a pleasure to be a part of such a fine organization as ASK. I would like to thank students for their support in making this year so successful. This year undoubtedly one of the more productive years for ASK and it was an honor to be a part of that success.

Road Rally

The next check point may be in sight. Turn left before the lady in white. This is a sample of the kinds of clues that were given to the drivers and navigators entered in West Hall's annual road rally. The rally is not based on who goes the fastest but tests the entries' ability to decode the clues and complete the course in prescribed time. Winners of the Road Rally were Clay Walters, Russell sophomore, and Randy Link, Chase senior.

HPER instructor takes over as coach

Tom Wood, health, physical education and recreation instructor at Fort Hays State University, will assume additional duties as Tiger baseball coach next fall. Wood, who has been at FHS one year, takes over the baseball program from interim coach Rick Zimmerman, who is directing the 1977 team while completing his master's degree. "Rick has done a fine job with the baseball program at Fort Hays State," Dr. Russell Bogue, HPER chairman, said, "and I am confident Tom will maintain our fine baseball tradition." "Tom comes to us with a fine background in high school and college baseball," Bogue continued. A native of South Beloit, Ill., Wood earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in recreation from Southern Illinois University in 1974 and 1976, respectively. His areas of specialization during the bachelor's program were parks and communities and during the master's program he worked on special populations in relation to recreation. A member of Al Somers' Professional Umpire School, he has been a baseball umpire for the past six years. In addition, he has played and coached various baseball programs, including competition at junior college one season. Wood is a member of the National Recreation and Parks Association, the National Therapeutic Association, the Illinois Park and Recreation Society and the Mid America Community Education Association. He is also a veteran of the U.S. Army. He and his wife, Joanne, have two children: Christopher and Andrew.

SOC's plan anniversary celebration

Plans have been tentatively set by the Student Organizations on Campus (SOC) for the celebration of the 75th anniversary of Fort Hays State during fall registration. A meeting will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Sante Fe Room of the Memorial Union for all SOC's that will be appearing before the Appropriations Committee of Student Senate later that night. Each SOC must be at the meeting if they want to be figured in the appropriations request, said Ann Gustad, Hays graduate. The appropriations request will go before the senate May 12.

The Thursday and Friday of fall registration, SOC's will be providing displays in front of the Memorial Union. The booths will be on display each day from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. "In a way, each organization will have an opportunity to honor FHS and to show how each organization has been a part of FHS history," said Gustad. "We want to get each student involved so we can say to them, 'There is something here and you don't have to run home on weekends.'" Gustad said it was important to remind all SOC's wanting to participate in the activities to be at the meeting Thursday.

Slapstick farces highlight Shakespearean play

A Shakespearean comedy with several unusual twists will be the next drama attraction for Fort Hays State. "Taming of the Shrew" will be a production of the Advanced Acting: Playing Period Comedy class. Based on old Italian comedy, this early work by Shakespeare features slapstick, boisterous comedy, sex farces and tumbling. Director Sue Trauth, assistant professor of speech, termed the play as one of the "most farcical, physically active" of Shakespeare's works. "Taming of the Shrew" will feature original music by Brett Musser, Phillipsburg senior and on-stage musicians performing on instruments of the period. An extended stage-front will also highlight the play, with the stage projecting over the first two rows of the theater. Trauth explained that this is an attempt to recreate the original interaction between actor and audience typical of the Elizabethan era.

Honorary gives award

The Fort Hays State University chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, a national education honorary, initiated 34 members and presented the M.C. Cunningham Award for service to education to retiring Hays school principal Warren Macy at its spring banquet.

Macy is principal at Washington Elementary School in Hays and retires this year after serving for 47 years. He started teaching at a rural school in Logan County in 1930 and has been at Washington School for 27 years.

He earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in education from Fort Hays State in 1950 and 1955. He is president-elect of the Hays Lions Club and has been a member of the Toastmaster International Club in Hays. The award, named after retired FHS President Morton Cunningham, is given annually at the spring banquet to the person selected by the group for his or her service to education.

Two faculty members, Dr. Harold Eickhoff, vice-president of academic affairs, and Dr. Robert Luehrs, associate professor history, and Bonnie Laudick, McMindes Hall head resident, were among the 34 new members of Phi Delta Kappa.

Rodeo evokes spirit of Old West: patience, fortitude

Western Tradition

Fort Hays State University recreates each year some of the flavor of the Old West through the annual Rodeo. Cowboys from all over the state pitted themselves against the natural elements and animals. The rodeo is a mixture of pain, suspense and laughter. It was these elements that helped the pioneers of the western frontier survive.

Figler plays selections from Chopin tonight

Byrnell Figler, associate professor of music and piano instructor at Fort Hays State University, will present a faculty recital Monday at 8 p.m. in Malloy Hall 115.

Figler's recital, which will feature several selections of Frederic Chopin, is being held in conjunction with National Music Week, sponsored by the Federated Music Club of America.

Figler holds Bachelor and Master of Music degrees from the St. Louis Institute of Music, where he studied with Leo Sirota. He has done post-graduate work at the Bavarian State Music Academy in Munich and at the University of Illinois, where his teachers were Stanley Fletcher and Webster Aitken. Figler has taught in St. Louis and Spokane and at the Universities of Illinois and Alabama. His concert experience includes tours in Germany, performances on Radio Paris and recitals throughout the United States. This faculty recital is free to the public.
