Career trends look promising

Employment trends, as projected by the College Placement Council by the College Placement Council and the Endicott and Shingleton surveys, hold a promising outlook for 1981 graduates. Placement Recruitment Exchange indicates through a CPC survey of 565 employing organizations that employers are projecting a 10 -percent increase in the number of new college graduates they will hire this year over last year.
The Endicott report, based on a survey of the major employers in he- private sector. is even more optimistic, projecting 15 percent more bachelor degree hires and 10 percent more master degree hires. ## Athletics - here we go again

For the past several years, whenever student government and athletic fficials got together, there was controversy. True to tradition, yesterday's athletics hearing bef resulted in a verbal brawl.
Actually, half a brawl. Business Senator Kevin Faulkner threw the first punch by questioning the integrity of Athletic Director Bobby Thompson's proposed budget - and by inference, the integrity of Thompso himself. Rather than join battle, Thompson walked out. Athletic Board Chairman Ron Pflughoft followed.
Faulkner's question may well have been out of place - even ownright rude. But there is no question, many student senators believe the athletic director has been rude to student government. The real question is how to break the seemingly endless cycle of suspicion and recriminations between athletics and student government.
One of the fundamental problems is that so many of the past suspicions of student leaders have been proved accurate. University officials admit serious management mistakes were made during the previous , 000 athletic department debt were revealed and corrective actions were taken At the same time, university administrators feel the new sports administration has made genuine efforts to put its house in order. Once again, decisions seem to be made on a businesslike basis.
As we have said before, we believe the root of the problem is a lack communication. We do not feel student represenation on the Athletic ain a steady dialogue. Without this, we do not believe relative peace between students and athletics can be restored.
Strong, speedy action should be taken to reform the structure of athietic administration at Fort Hays State. This would be in the best in erest of the student body, which pays for the biggest share of athletic nage; and those who are often overlooked in the controversy - the athletes themselves.

Jennings clarifies reading service use

Editor:

1975, we designed our Reading Service cellent article in the Feb. 17 issue of exUniversity Leader telling of the beginning program of tutorial reading services for Fort Hays State students. We do appreciate your interest in helping to "get the word" to students inter reading skills.

reading skilis.

However. may I please address a possibly hat a rather considerable area of the Reading Service Center - the 24 tutoring cubicles - "...see little use..." This is a little mianning of the new Rarick Hall began, reading-study skills program was very much mind.
We have had assmall reading-study skills program for $F H S$ students for several years But when we were asked to plan for reading Hence the tutoring service our elementary and secondary education pre-service teacher training program of both undergraduate and graduate levels. We hope to grow more and at some point in the future move into working with tionally illiterate, a program badly needed in Kansas.

Thank you for allowing me to provide more information regarding space utiliza tion. The building has only just opened. It will vices we offer. We surely don't want our governmental leaders to think they have spent money for wasted space.

Tuition battle loomsfahead

A significant number of students, probably more than the majority. believe politics is boring, corrupt or both. The result is political apathy - dismal voting percentages for apathy - dismal voting percentages for young people, little activity in politics. little interest in the governmental process.
Well, if you fall into that broad category. listen up. Tuition is going to go up next year. Funding of student iobs. faculty salaries and university operating expenses - basic to the quality of education we receive - is falling quality of education we receive - is falling steadily behind inflationary increases. Drastic cuts in federal financial aid. from Basic Grants to Guaranteed Student Loans - are imminent are imminent Probably no student at Fort Hays State will find the burden of next year's educational expenses any lighter Most will find it creasingly difficult to afford an education The only question facing students is the severity of iuition increases and aid decreases. it would not be an oversiatement to suggest that the present scrutiny govern. ments of all levels are giving eduration is the most serious issue to confront the young pera

Netters gear for season opener with Bethel

Abstract

by G.S. Peter z Once again, it is that time of year. when basketball is beginning to wind down and the wrestlers are going to the mats for the last time. It also is a time when nets go up on the tennis courts, and familiar "pops" and "cracks" of tennis come alive. This This year, Molly Smith, men's tenwhich to field a squad of six. Smith is in her first year at the helm of the men's tennis program. Although she is new to the men's team. Smith is no stranger to the courts. She has been the women's coach the past three years. 11 men out for tennis are returning varsity lettermen from last year's third-place conference finisher. The four are Tod Jeff Searle, Hays sophomore; Jeff Stieglitz, Buhler sophomore: and Steve Williams. Russell senior.

Devaney played No. 5 singles last year for the Tigers, compiling a $10-7$ season record. Smith expects Devaney to move into the top four practice as a result of injuries surtrained in an auto accident during semester break. In his first seas In his first se. had a $10-7$ record playing at the No. 2 singles spot He placed third in the conference in singles and was second in doubles. Last year, Stieglitz played at No. 4 for the netmen. In his first year for the Black and Gold first year for the Black and Gold. Stieglitz had an 11-8 singles record form the No. 3 doubles team. Together, Stieglitz and Devaney placed second in Central States Intercollegiate Conference doubles competition. Senior Steve Fort Hays Se Williams will don the Fort Hays State uniform for the last No. 6. William. While playing at terence tournament

Smith will use the next two weeks to determine who will fill the remaining two slots on the team. Although she has seven players to choose from, she has narrowed the choice to three possibilities. The three are Wee Rugs, Kiowa sophomore; Bryan Shroyer. Sterling freshman; and Randy Wilson. Topeka senior. Rugs came to FHS this season from West Texas State University. He is expected to be one of the top competitors to fill the No. 5 or 6 singles slot.
Shroyer will be competing for the first time as a Tiger this spring. As a senior at Sterling High School, Shroyer played exclusively doubles In doubles action, he and his part ner. Eric Johnston, placed second in the 3A state tournament and had a 9-2 season.
Tigers is Randy member for the Wilson was the Wilson. Last year player, while seeing only limited varsity action. His record last year was $1-1$ in varsity play. Other squad members are Kevin Roble. Ellinwood senior: Robbie

Francis, Great Bend senior Smith says the biggest difference between coaching the men as opposed to the women, is the speed at which the men play. "The speed the men play makes it harder he men play makes it harder to break apart and analyze their game." Smith said. "Otherwise, the drills and the conditioning are the same as with women.
Another problem Smith said she has to overcome in adapting to the men is the difference in communicaton. The women, she said, come right out and say what they think about practice and drills. The men are quieter. and do what she asks them to do in practice.
The Tiger netters have been using this winter's mild weather to get outside and practice. Smith said most of her players have been experiencing some frustration in the early practies. "Their timing is off, as is their they have experienced some frustraion."
The season looks to be a competitive one. Smith said. Although in the past, the season will be
