Dale McKemmy was asked to come to the faculty senate meeting, but was unavailable at this time of the item on the agenda. Rich Hughen then addressed the senate and informed them that AAUP had been certified as the official representative through the election process. AAUP needs to adopt a new constitution to reflect the collective bargaining process. This will occur in the next few weeks. Election of new officers will take place (we can volunteer). Rich also talked about the role of faculty senate and AAUP involvement. AAUP is not responsible or concerned with academic issues. Salary and working conditions is AAUP interest. Faculty senate will also be interested and we will need to work together on this. The process of contract development will occur after AAUP gets input from all faculty. Then a committee will put together ideas and develop a contact together. The contract will be negotiated. Members of AAUP will vote. A question was asked about the organizing structure, specifically should faculty senate have a separate committee related to AAUP on Faculty Senate. Rich said "no because AAUP has members on all committees. However, there may need to have some changes in how things are communicated between the groups. An estimate of membership cost was discussed.*
