Lunch ‘n’ Learn – The Power of Prevention: Optimize Your Health

Thursday, May 21; 11:30am-12:30pm

ONLINE

Optimal health is incredibly important, especially considering the pandemic era in which we now live. Consider this: investing in your wellness now will cost you MUCH less than paying for your illness later. As the CDC reports, more than 75% of America’s health spending is on people suffering with chronic conditions – which are the leading causes of death and disability. In fact, each year, 7 out of 10 deaths in the United States are from chronic diseases. While these statistics seem startling, there are small improvements you can make to improve your health and happiness. There are factors that will have an impact on your health: movement/physical activity, sleep, nutrition and stress management. In addition to discussing each of these topics, we will also discuss easy ideas to help you start making lifestyle changes for improved health and a better life.

Leading With Strengths Through COVID-19

Wednesday, May 27; 9:00-9:45am

ONLINE

With Gov. Kelly’s lifting of the Stay At Home Order, it seems that the light at the end of the tunnel is finally starting to appear. That said, our return to ‘normal’ will still take thoughtful consideration & planning; in fact, things in the workplace and at home may never be normal again. How do we attempt to rebuild our ‘normal’ lives? The MDC, based on several requests for MORE Strengths-based webinars, developed this new 45-minute session in response. In this mini-training, we will talk about the path of least resistance, using your Strengths to create hope, & implementing Gallup's Goals/Energy/Ideas framework, all of which will ultimately lead you THROUGH the end of the tunnel and out the other side. **In order to participate in this session, participants need to have taken the CliftonStrengths Assessment and have their "Top 5" results.*

Supervising Virtually (Online Workshop)

**Wednesday, May 27*

ONLINE – ZOOM & BLACKBOARD

Being a supervisor or manager at the beginning of March 2020 looks vastly different than it does in April 2020. Employers and managers are now no longer able to watch employees work, physically check quality, or call them into offices to discuss performance. While you are still expected to manage effectively, the way that you manage has likely changed considerably. In this MDC online training, we will be discussing the five effective supervisory skills, but using the lens of virtual or telecommuting to work. Basic principles remain the same; but the strategies, methods, or processes need to look different to adapt to today's unique challenges and circumstances. In addition to reviewing the five effective supervisory skills, we will also discuss strategies & ideas for making these skills more effective in a virtual environment.

**6 hours of content to be delivered both asynchronously & synchronously via Zoom & Blackboard. More instructions given upon registration. Registration is $30/person.*

Register: <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/supervising-virtually-tickets-103276384446>

Online training sessions are held via Zoom, a link to join will be sent to registrants prior to the event. If you have any questions or concerns about any of these events, contact Hannah Hilker at hehilker@fhsu.edu

Well-run internships provide positive experiences for both the hiring business and the hired student. However, a poorly run internship can cause distress, loss of confidence, and even lost money. We don't want you to kick off your summer internship program on the wrong foot! Dr. Stacey Smith, Applied Business Studies at FHSU will take you through internships 101 with the Virtual Lunch and Learn, "I've Hired an Intern. Now What?!" Dr. Smith will discuss what an intern is, what types of skills you can teach your newly hired intern from both an academic and business perspective, and finally, give various examples of what a successful internship should look like.
